It is over its banks in the southern part of the city, and has washed away part of the city, and has washed away part of the city is much excited over the situation, for it is feared that should the river banks give way there would be a great rushing of water over a large part of the residence portion of the city.

A fast passenger train on the Central railroad, going east over the bridge over Black Creek, between here and Churchville, was so badly shaken up that several passengers were thrown from their seats. The trestle-work of the bridge had gone down nearly eight inches, the stone work on the west side of the bridge having been undermined by the high water. The discovery was made just in time to stop a fast freight that was coming from the west. The bridge is gradually sinking, and in spite of efforts being made to save it, the belief is that it will soon give way. ROCHESTER, (N. Y.,) April 2.-Th

CHAZEAL'S ESTATE.

Alleged Reason for Trying to Prove CHICAGO, April 2.- In spite of the verdict of the coroner's jury on Tuesday, the friends of Chazeal, the Frenchman who disappeared at Salt Lake, believe that they can soon prove the body in the box to be his. that they can soon prove the body in the box to be his.

One reason why such strenuous attempts are being made to prove that the body is Chazael's is said to be the wealth he is possessed of. When he disappeared he left over $2000 cash behind him on deposit at the Deseret National Bank at Sait Lake. This money is still held for proof of his death. Chazael also possessed a good deal of property in France. Since his disappearance, three years ago, a wealthy relative, who lived near Lyons, France, died and left Chazael a large fortune. All this wealth is tied up.

The body, having been identified as that of Oilver Pike, was shipped to Ohio last evening for interment.

A flattering proposition to enter the practice of law in New York has been made to him, and con-sideration is contingent upon the re-sult of the national convention."

Of course neither Reed nor those who might be regarded as representing him, care to discuss the contingency of his failure to secure the Presidential nomi-nation, as that might be regarded as anticipating defeat. But the informa-tion is regarded as positive enough to warrant aspirants to the Speakership in the next Congress to begin laying their plans. THE GEORGIAN JOINT DEBATE.

Secretary Hoke Smith and Ex-Speaker Crisp Talk on Currency. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

ATLANTA, (Ga.,) April 2 .- Six thousand people gathered tonight in the big tabernacle to hear the second of the series of joint debates on the currency between Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith and ex-Speaker Charles F. Crisp, Secretary Smith having the opening and speaking for an nour and ten minutes.

retary Smith began by saying that he opposed the free and unlimited coinage of silver at 16 to 1 for the same reason that Benjamin H. Hill had opsed it. He declared that he also posed free coinage because he wanted to see genuine bimetallism obtain in this country. The advocates of free coinare. when they called themselves bimetallists, masqueraded under a title they did not deserve. He rapidly outlined the history of coinage to show that the commercial value of gold and silver had regulated the establishment of the legal ratio between the metals. The Secretary denied that the Act of 1873 had caused the fall in the price of silver. The law of supply and demand and the cheapening of the cost of mining had been potent factors in that depreciation. If the free coinage of silver would cause the 371½ grains of silver in a silver dollar to be worth as much as the 23.22 grains of gold in a gold dollar, if it would give a real bimetallism he would be in favor of it. But he felt ashamed of himself for presenting such a case even hypothetically. History and common sense showed that it was impossible. He cited Gen. Walker, Prof. Andrews, A. J. Balfour and other leading bimetallists as declaring that the experiment of free coinage without international agreement would be disastrous. Instead of our currency being contracted since 1873 Secretary Smith declared it had been enormously increased.

"We have a greater per capita of gold and silver in circulation now than ever before. Before 1873 only 8,031,000 silver dollars had been coined, exclusive of subsidiary coins. Since March, 1893, during this administration which has been declared so hostile to silver, more than seven million silver dollars have been coined. The hard times had begun with the Sherman act. The fear of free-silver coinage had shaken public confidence and caused a contraction of the credit currency, which carried 97½ per cent. of the business of the country. In remodeling our currency system we should first fix a stable standard, then retire the greenthis country. The advocates of fre coinage, when they called themselve backs, as recommended by Carlisle, give silver the right-of-way below $10, and allow State banks the right to issue notes. He would not undertake to present a complete plan, but the central idea must be to have every dollar of equal value. The bond issue was necessary to pay demand notes of the government. Secretary Smith concluded by painting the disaster that would result from the election of a Congress and a President favorable to free-silver coinage.

Mr. Crisp was given a rousing reception when he arose. In beginning, he said he wanted to say that his "Brother Smith," as he referred to the Secretary, made as good an argument as he had ever heard in behalf of a cause so intrinsically weak.

made as good an argument as he had ever heard in behalf of a cause so intrinsically weak.

"This joint debate business may be fun to my friend Smith," he said, "but it's not fun for me. I'm a candidate for the Senate, and I'm anxious to get through with these joint debates and get down to the business of a candidate. My friend Smith, however, is not a candidate for the Senate. He has no desire to, and I have no idea that the people of Georgia will force him to run." Here Mr. Crisp read a letter written by Secretary Smith in 1890 favoring the free coinage of silver, enunciating its declarations with careful emphasis. He also read what purported to be extracts from two speeches delivered by Secretary Smith, one in 1894, in which he opposed the single gold standard, and the other in Augusta, two nights ago, in which he advocated the single standard.

The demonetization of silver caused opposed the single gold standard, and the other in Augusta, two nights ago, in which he advocated the single standard.

The demonetization of silver caused the fall in prices, Crisp contended, and he recited the reasons therefor. First, it reduced the money supply of the world. There had been hard times in this country of late. As soon as the people found out that silver had been demonetized they began to agitate for its restoration. This agitation had become a crime in the eyes of the men who had a fixed income which was increasing every day. He ridiculed the claim that the single gold standard was in favor of the laboring man. The advocates of free coinage, he urged, did not want a dishonest dollar. They did not want one dollar to have more value than another.

The first administration of Mr. Cleveland did pay off a large amount of bonds, but that did not alter the fact that his present administration, and he said it with shame, had imposed on the people a debt that would amount to $500,000,000 before it was paid.

Generous applause accompanied Crisp's close, which grew into a roar as Secretary Smith rose for his twenty minutes' rejoinder. He declared that Mr. Crisp had dodged the proposition that there could not be a bimetailic currency without having the legal ratio the same as the commercial ratio. He was willing to rest the whole case on that proposition. Instead of arguing the point, Crisp had indulged in small talk and demagogical appeals to prejudice against the Rothschilds and Wall street. He was sorry that the gentleman had cast his candidacy for the Secretary's rejoinder was interrupted by frequent outbursts of applause, which in each case aroused opposing cheers for Crisp, interspersed with hisses and catyalls. The Secretary's rejoinder was interrupted by frequent outbursts of applause, which in each case aroused opposing cheers for Crisp, interspersed with hisses and catyalls. The Secretary called attention to the fact that Crisp had not answered the historical authorities on bimetallism in France

M'KINLEY IN NEW HAMPSHIRE. hairman Putney of the Resolution Committee Writes to Chandler,
(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

MANCHESTER (N. H.,) April 2.— Henry M. Putney, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions of the New Hampshire State Convention, replied to the criticisms of Senator Chandler contained in a letter to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, in a le ter today. In this letter Mr. Putney de nies that the McKinley sentiment was so greatly in the minority in the convention, or that there was any con spiracy to capture the convention for him. He says:

"Nearly every delegate went to Concord with the feeling that the party must not be responsible for what you had said about Mr. McKinley in your interviews and letters. During the afternoon and evening at least a dozen resolutions were considered, ranging from one which indignantly repudiated your utterances, calling you by name, o one which instructed the delegates for McKinley. "You said the previous evening that for McKinley.

"You said the previous evening that it an attempt was made to declare McKinley the second choice of the convention you would leave the chair and oppose it. A number of influential friends told you you were fortunate to get nothing worse; that with the temper of the convention as it was, any attempt to oppose so mild a resolution would result in the passage of a much more drastic one, and they asked you not to make the fight which would be hopeless from the first. You prudently sent word you would not contest. You were not a coward. You were not cheated. You saw the avalanche coming and got as far toward the edge of it as possible, like the wise man you are. You conceded nothing. You accepted the inevitable. The only man really opposed to it was yourself. When you stepped aside it was unanimous.

"When Reed's name was mentioned his friends cheered, but the greatest demonstration of approval of a candidate in New Hampshire convention for twenty years was when I read the resolution indorsing McKinley as a pure and able statesman, and the equal of Reed in our favor."

Mr. Putney continues: "The platform is more avpressive of the real."

Reed in our favor."

Mr. Putney continues: "The platform is more expressive of the real sentiments of New Hampshire Republicans than any other that has been written for years. It is your platform, because you assented to it. It is the platform of the party in this State, because it voices the feelings of nearly every Republican. They do not much expect to see Reed nominated. First, because his rival is carrying pretty much all before him, and secondly, because they know the Platts and Quays and Clarksons, who have seized his candidacy, in order to hold New England delegates, have intended to betray them if the time ever comes when they could take their retainers into another camp. This betrayal of our convention has made it impossible. I am glad to learn that Mr. Reed is a bimetallist, for Mr. Lodge, to whom you make report of your stewardship and whom you seem to recognize as his manager, has put him on a goldbug platform in Massachusetts." Reed in our favor."

Nearly Completed. edings of Senate and House ndian-school Appropriation Bill. An Anti-Sectarian Test Vote.

The Committees.

A Report on the Measure Now

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, April 2.—(Special Dispatch.) It is probable that the Pa-cific Railroad Funding Bill will be reported by the joint sub-committee to their respective full committees tomor-row afternoon. The joint sub-committee has been working upon a report which, it is understood, will form the basis for the reports to be submitted with the bill by the Senate and House committees, respectively.

The joint sub-committee on Tuesday requested the Secretary of the Treasury to ascertain what would be the in-debtedness of the various bond-aided roads on January 1, 1897, and this information has been handed in to the committee. There will be a meeting of the committee tomorrow, and it has been learned that the report has already been prepared, except for the desired figures. It seems likely that the joint sub-committee will be able to hear it read and pass on it at one meet-ing, unless some obstacle should be met, which is not at present expected.

The exact figures of the debt, as required to be estimated by the bill which is to be reported, were given out today. There are several possible ways of figuring on the indebtedness, and what way shall be employed has been subject to considerable discussion in all past deliberations of the committees. past deliberations of the committees, hence, as various methods would pro duce results differing somewhat widely, the manner of estimating required of the Secretary of the Treasury and the amount arrived at become of interest.

It is interesting to note that he Secretary's estimate of the debt is about $1,000,000 in excess of the estimates previously made. The total amount which will be paid to the government by the Contral Reddie extrem and by the Central Pacific system, and guaranteed by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, under the terms of the funding bill is $60,925,000. The Secretary of the Treasury is required by the bill to find the whole amount of the principal of the original subsidy honds and to add to that amount the total interest paid, or to be paid by the United States on the same, thus ascertaining the aggregate amount that would have been due to the United States for principal and interest paid on the bonds at their maturity if no payments or reimbursements had been made thereon. The amount thus found by Secretary Carlisle, proceeding on this basis, was $77,000,000, but this was reduced $10,000,-000 by the payments appearing in the bond and interest accounts in treasury and by the bonds in the sink-

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The Post office Appropriation Bill served to bring out some sharp discussion in the Senate today on the propriety of abolishing country postoffices and absorbing them as branches of city offices. Mr. Gorman opposed the plan as un democratic. He stated that the Baltimore postoffice power was exerted toward influencing the selection of men for Congress. After a speech by toward influencing the selection of men for Congress. After a speech by Senator Elkins, advocating subsidies and other means of extending American commerce on the seas, the Postoffice Bill went over. During the day Senator George closed his speech, covering three days, in opposition to Mr. Dupont's claim to a seat. The resolution for investigating the bond sale again went over on Senator Hill's objection.

The question of the appropriation of public money for private sectarian institutions, which was debated for several days during the consideration of the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill, in connection with some appropriations for charitable institutions, in Washington, was fought over for four hours in the House today. On the former occasions the contest was managed by Mr. Linton, who is one of the pronounced A.P.A. members. This contest was successful, and by a vote of 143 to 135 the bill was recommitted. Today the bone of contention was the Howard University, a colored institution of Washington, for which an appropriation of $32,600 was inserted in the Sundry Civil Bill yesterday on motion of Mr. Evans of Kentucky.

There was no opposition and no debate on the amendment yesterday. Today Mr. Halner of Nebraska, in whose temporary absence the amendment was adopted yesterday, rallied his forces against the appropriation on the ground that it was both a private and a sectarian institution, a school of theology being maintained by the university. The appropriation was coupled with a proviso that no part of it should be used for religious teachings, but Mr. Hainer insisted that it could not be denied that it was in a sense a religious institution.

REGULAR SESSION.

REGULAR SESSION.

(BT ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—SENATE.

—An agreement was reached in the Senate today that the adjournment at the close of today's session would be until next Monday.

The House bill was passed granting the Atchison and Nebraska and Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Rallways the right-of-way through the Sac and Fox and Iowa Indian reservations of Kansas and Nebraska.

Senator Pettigrew reported the Indian Appropriation Bill, and gave notice that he would ask to take it up on Monday. The Postoffice Appropriation Bill was then taken up. Senator Wolcott offered an amendment to regulate the salaries of postmasters of sub-stations in cities. The Senator spoke in favor of the policy of the Postoffice Department in establishing metropolitan centers with many minor offices surrounding them, as in Chicago and Boston. Senator Wolcott said the policy had lead to abuses.

Senator Gorman opposed the amendpartment in establishing metropolitan centers with many minor offices surrounding them, as in Chicago and Boston. Senator Wolcott said the policy had lead to abuses.

Senator Gorman opposed the amendment. It was a step toward doing away with the small fourth-class postoffices, and making them branches of the city postoffices. It was, said Senator Gorman, part of the prevalling tendency of the world to absorb power and place it in the hands of a few men. Those small postoffices were local institutions, the postmaster was one of the local people, and the people did not want their office absorbed by the great city offices. Senator Gorman declared that this consolidation was undemocratio and unAmerican.

"I am loath to take the postoffices away from the people," declared Senator Gorman vehemently. "The entire tendency of the day is to discredit the people, to take them from the powers of government and the power to name their own servants. When the people are to have guardians appointed over them, then this government will become a failure."

Senator Gorman went on to make pointed reference to the politics involved in this consolidation. The men who had shouted loudest for civil service reform were using this plan as a powerful machine to accomplish political ends. "From headquarters came the orders to this man, with enlarged powers," proceeded Senator Gorman, "to select the men who should go to the Congress of the United States, and at least one of them came."

Senator Vilas of Wisconsin felt compelled to disagree with the Senator from Maryland. He favored the amendment, first because it would improve the postal service of the postoffice system. He felt that the civil-service idea has been much used for exploitation by persons who used it to attract attention to themselves, yet he believed it was the true principle to maintain democratic institutions—not democratic in the party sense.

"No one would suspect" interlected tutions-not democratic in the party

"No one would suspect," interjected Senator Frye sarcastically, "that the Senator would make such use of the word 'Democrat' because everybody understands now that the word would not commend the amendment to the American people."

Senator Vilas took the remark seriously, and said he must decline to be diverted by a partisan remark, "Although," he added, "perhaps something might be said on that subject, in view of some recent developments which now lead to the hope that the American people are not yet ready to be sold or bought."

"The Senator is taking me entirely too seriously," responded Senator Frye, Vilas went on to show that postoffice to seriously," responded Senator Frye.

Vilas went on to show that postoffice consolidation was desirable, as the little country offices were under no supervision or control.

Senator Hawley of Connecticut spoke in favor of the old-fashioned rural postoffice—an institution that was in the affections and traditions of the people. The town postoffice was the town club. The town postoffice was the town club. The town postmaster was the intermediary between the citizen and the fountainhead of government at Washington, and he should not be displaced by a young clerk who could pass a civil-service examination. This was a move toward making a machine out of the government; it was carrying civil service to an extreme.

He spoke of the British activity in securing control of the ocean commerce, and also spoke of the Canadian Pacific railroad's violation of the interstate the bonding privilege which it enjoyed.

As a means of reviving our oceancommerce, Senator Elkins advocated the reënactment of the old law giving

The Postoffice Bill was then laid aside, and at 5:35 o'clock the Senate went into executive sesion and soon after adjourned until Monday. HOUSE.—Several minor bills were passed by unanimous consentabefor consideration of the Sundry Civil Ap-propriation Bill was resumed in the House today.

A resolution of inquiry was presented by Mr. Hitt, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and was adopted without debate, calling on the Presilent, if not incompatible with public inerest, to transmit to the House copies of all dispatches, notes and telegrams in he State Department from Deto mediation or intervention by the United States in the affairs of Vene-

United States in the attents of the zuela, together with all correspondence with foreign governments relating to the same topic. Mr. Hitt stated that his committee had unanimously reported the resolutions.

The Sundry Civil Bill was then taken up. Under an arrangement entinto, Mr. Hainer of Nebraska into, Mr. Hainer of Nebraska was given an opportunity to attack the amendment adopted vesterday appro-priating $32,000 for the Howard Uni-versity. It was Mr. Hainer who led the successful fight against appropria-tions for sectarian charitable institu-tions in the District of Columbia Ap-propriation Bill tions for sectarian charitable institutions in the District of Columbia Appropriation Bill.

Mr. Hainer explained that the amendment was adopted yesterday while he was temporarily absent from the hall, and without opposition, in a way which made it seem probable that it is not obnoxious to the Appropriations Committee. He thought the members had unwittingly agreed to it yesterday without realizing its far-reaching character and significance. This was a private institution, and every candid person must admit that it was also sectarian.
Twice this session the House had placed itself on record against appropriating one dollar for sectarian institutions.
The House had gone further, and had declared against appropriating for any private purpose.

He read from the prospectus of the institution to show that it was a Christian university, and maintained as its most favored department a school of theology. This was an institution of the further education of the colored people. Why should colored people be given higher education at pubile expense if white people were not? What excuse could members give? He favored higher education, but the government had no right to single out a par-ticular sect, race, creed, or social class, Favoritism has no place in any intelli-gent republic. He charged that the institution was engaged in missionary gent republic. He charged that the institution was engaged in missionary work in Africa.

"I submit," he said, "that our missionary work had better be done at home. We cannot justify our action in apropriating money for evangelizing the people of Africa." This was an insidious attempt to commit Congress again to a principle that had in the past taken millions upon millions of dollars from the confers of the government for the benefit of sectarian institutions. From 1871 to 1896, in the District of Columbia alone $13,000,000$ had been given to sectarian institutions. As much more had gone to sectarian schools.

"If you say," said he, "that every-body who does a good work is entitled to governmental aid, where is the line to be drawn? There is only one safe ground, and that is to absolutely divorce church and state."

Members had told him that there were colored voters in their districts, and they could not affod to vote against the amendment. This was a low estimate to be placed upon the race that had given the country Frederick Douglass and Booker Washington. That race does not want cajoling. It wants its rights. The colored people want to be treated as men and women, because they are men and women.

Mr. Evans of Kentucky, who had offered the amendment and who had charge of the time in opposition to Mr. Hainer, yielded to Mr. Bartiett of New

Mr. Evans of Kentucky, who had offered the amendment and who had charge of the time in opposition to Mr. Hainer, yielded to Mr. Bartlett of New York, a member of the Appropriations. Committee. The gentleman from Nebraska, Mr. Bartlett said, not contentwith defeating one appropriation bill through the indulgence of the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, had made an attack on this bill, in which he advocated the proscription of every form of Christian religion His feeling toward the Roman Catholic church led him today to attack the unfortunate race liberated and raised to its feet by the immortal Lincoun, in whose honor the House yesterday appropriated $30,000 for the purchase of the house in which he lived.

Proceeding, he denounced as terrible Proceeding, he denounced as terrible and monstrous this lin-de-sleele doctrine being advanced in the House that we should denounce Christianity and couple every appropriation bill with a provision that not a dollar of it should go to the furtherance of a Christian go to the furtherance of a Christian purpose.

Mr. Cannon followed in support of the amendment. The appropriation for the Howard University, he said, was first made in 1880 on motion of Mr. Monroe of Ohio. The Appropriations Committee rejected the appropriation because the university contained a theological chair, but when the amendment was offered with the provision that no portion of the money should be used directly or indirectly for religious use, the amendment was freed from possible objection. From the standpoint of broad patriotism, he believed that the race, once siaves, now free, though saillignorant, 2s a means of self-defense and for the defense of the white people of the country, should be encouraged in industry and education.

Mr. Sayers of Texas also supported the amendment, and drifted into a sharp political discussion with regard to the respective claims of the two parties to the friendship of the colored people. Mr. Sayers called attention to the fact that in the South colored and white men worked side by side. The Democratic party in the South had been the real friends of the colored people. They stood ready now to vote this money. He had no doubt that in every political speech made by the gentleman from enbraska, he had told his colored people a fair chance.

"Are you now in favor of giving them a fair chance?" he asked.

"I denounce the Democratic party," repiled Mr. Hainer, "as I now do, because it denied to the colored people their rights as men, and now you seem to degrade them further by offering them charity."

Mr. Sayers indignantly denied that the colored people in the South were Mr. Cannon followed in support of Mr. Sayers indignantly denied that the colored people in the South were deprived of their rights. He called attention to the fact that the white people of the South, who paid nine-tenths of the taxes, maintained schools for the colored people, as good as those for the white. A sharp, running debate between Mr. Sayers and Mr. Hainer followed, in the course of which Mr. Hainer insisted upon his charges regarding the South, and affirmed that the races in the North stood on an equal footing.

"Can they get into the institutions of the North?" asked Mr. Sayers.

"They are on an equal footing with the whites," replied Mr. Hainer.

"Was any colored boy ever nominated as a cadet to West Point or Annapolist"." do not know."

"I do not know."
"Did you ever nominate one?"

"The cadets in my district are selected by competitive examination?" replied Mr. Hainer.

"Oh, yes; we know about the competitive examinations," said Mr. Sayers amid Democratic laughter.

"Have you ever nominated a colored boy?" asked Mr. Hainer.

"No," promptly responded Mr. Sayers, "as now constituted, I believe the white race is the superior man and should dominate."

"And you are the boasted friend of "Yes, and a better friend than the gentleman from Nebraska."

Mr. Sayers concluded with a protest against turning this institution out to Mr. Hepburn of Iowa ridiculed the new champion of the colored race, and asked if the University of Texas, devoted to the higher education, admitted voted to the highest colored youths. "Frankly, no," replied Mr . Sayers, "but the State supports other schools for colored people."

Mr. Hepburn ridiculed the idea that were the colored race. Where were the proofs?

Were they to be found in the fact that in the South, where the Democrats were in control, the colored people were not only deprived of higher education, but were robbed of their civil rights? The records in the election cases show that stolen power was used in the House of Representatives. (Republican applause.) As illustrating the sympathy of the Southern Democrats for the colored race, he drew attention to the fact that the new constitution of South Carolina provided for separate schools, and that "no child of either race should ever be permitted to attend the school of the other race."

Mr. Johnson of California made a humorous speech against the appro-tate so high that ridiculous fanaticism would never be able to overleap it. After some further remarks by Mr. After some further remarks by Mr. Indrews of Nebraska, against the appropriation, Mr. Evans, the author of the amendment, closed the debate with an eloquent plea for the retention of the appropriation. He announced his unalterable opposition to appropriations for sectarian institutions, and said he was willing to go to the extent of adopting a constitutional amendatory. adopting a constitutional amend-it, but insisted that with the pro-on in the amendment, none of the sey would go to the maintenance of plorical schools.

Mr. Sayers made a point of order against the amendment, which was sustained by Mr. Hopkins of Illinois, who was in the chair. The committee then arose.

Mr. Evans moved a substitute for the provision appropriating $32,000 for the Howard University in this city, which made the point that none of the appropriation was to be used for the support of the theological department of the university specified. The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Hainer demanded the nays and ayes on the adoption of the amendment. The amendment was adopted by 129 to 106. The bill was then passed, and at 5:25 o'clock the House ad-

The two delegates exerted (heir endeavors to induce the committee to vote and refused to be drawn into a debate, although the opponents of statehood asked them many questions. To prevent the consumption of time the delegates declined to answer most questions, taking the ground that the matter had been thoroughly discussed already.

Mr. Taft, during the discussion, declared that Congress could not blind its eyes to the fact that the admission of two Territories would add four votes for free silver to the Senate. He argued that it was not fair that existing statutes should be changed in the midst of great controversy like the financial question; that the question should be settled by the Union as it now stands, and that sound-money men should not be handicapped by the new silver States. He also charged that 25 per cent. of the inhabitants of Arisona, and 33 per cent. of New Mexico are illiterate.

Mr. Avery held that the only ques tions to be considered were the quali-fications of the Territory for statehood. Mr. Harris argued that the silver question should not be brought into the controversy.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Some fea-tures of engineering work upon the Nicaragua Canal were discussed today Nicaragua Canal were discussed today before the House Committee on Commerce, from the signation of engineers experienced in large enterprises. Lindon W. Bates of Chicago described the dredging machines and operations on the Chicago Drainage Canal, and asserted that by the same machinery and methods the work on the Nicaragua Canal could be done for less than the company's estimates. The construction of the canal, he said, would inaugurate a new era for the Pacific Coast, and greatly increases the earnings of the railways in that section.

THOSE INDIAN SCHOOLS.

THOSE INDIAN SCHOOLS. WASHINGTON, April 2.-The Senate Committee on Appropriations completed consideration of the Indian Appropriation Bill today. The bill has been before the Senate since February 14. The delay was occasioned by the committee's inability to reach a consistency to the proper course to be clusion as to the proper course to be pursued in the treatment of sectarian schools for the education of Indian children.

The House inserted an explicit pro rision that none of the money appro-priated for the schools should be used in the support of sectarian schools, but provided for appropriations for schools at Hampton Roads; Va., and for the Lincoln Institute at Philadelphia. The Senate Committee did not amend the House provisions declaring against sectarian schools, but struck out the appropriations for the Philadelphia and Hampton Roads schools, the former being $33,000 and the latter $20,000. The Senate Committee also increased the appropriation for the purchase or lease of school property, $100,000, making the total $140,000. The purpose is to supply means to purchase the property of sectarian institutions for the education of the Indians. The proposition for the support of day and industrial schools was increased $100,000. making a total support of day and industrial schools was increased $100,000, making a total of $1,285,000.

OMAHA, (Neb.,) April 2.—(Specia Dispatch.) Julius Festner left Omaht two weeks ago today, after having beer incarcerated in the County Jail for sev eral weeks while he was being ex-amined as to his sanity. He has for years been a victim of drink and the tobacco habit, and his relatives and friends, particularly his wife, have made every effort to cure him. While laboring under these spells his mind has apparently been unbalanced to such a degree that his wife was frequently ill-treated. The first attack of the kind occurre in 1882, recurring again in 1886 and once more in 1892. As a result he was upon her husband. She was compelled to call friends to her assistance. Fest-ner was removed to the County Jail for treatment, but a week later escaped and returned to the city. more he was put in an institution, tiss time in one near Council Bluffs, remaining only a week. He was shortly afterward arrested and held at the County Jail until two weeks ago, while his case was being examined into by the insanity board. It was finally determined to place him in the care of a friend in Sacramento, who hoped to cure him by keeping him on a ranch.

It appears that Festner never reached the friend's abode, but went to San Francisco, where he joined an old friend by the name of Strong, a man who formerly lived in this city. The suspicion that Festner. is the strangler however, is disproved by the fact that the alleged strangler committed his first murder on February 10, when Festner was in this city. The dispatch states that Festner confessed that he had tried to strangle his wife. An investigation of this statement showed that it contained more truth than poetry. Mrs. Festner stated this morning that her had in other ways abused her. He had always, however, made his acquaintal a grams to Mrs. Festner and one of Festner's sisters, asking that money be for-warded to get Festner out of his scrape. He says that even his trunks have been seized. The relatives, however, do not seized. The relatives, however, do not propose to send any money, as they believe it will do him more harm than good. Moreover, they are of the opinion that a little confinement will work a miracle for Festner. When shown the dispatch this morning, Mrs. Festner was overcome and wept bitterly. She said that she would spend everything she had if she could cure her husband. thing she had if she could cure her husband. She believed that he was afflicted with some disease that made him mean and brutal. The family lives at No. 1855 South Seventeenth street. In 1882, when the apparent insanity first developed in Festner, he left the city for thirty days, during which time he squandered $11,000 in cash, his portion of his father's estate. There is no record of his having assaulted any other woman than his wife.

CAPE TOWN, April 2.—(By South Af-ican Cable.) News from Matabeleland rican Cable.) News from Matabeleland is meager, but there are now indications that the rebellion may be checked before it has time to spread dangerously far. Dispatches received here from England say that preparations are being made to send reinforcements of 5000 regular troops here at short notice, should such a step be necessary, and it is said that 5000 additional troops can be hurried here from India in a very short time. These announcements have a certain calming effect upon the public mind, and there is not so much loud snort time. These announcements have a certain calming effect upon the public mind, and there is not so much loud talking on the part of the burghers and their advisers.

A delayed dispatch from Buluwayo, dated Tuesday last, says that Capt. McFarlane, in command of the mounted pariol, had a sharp skirmish with a band of rebellious Matabeles at Queen's Lieef, Dembezzi. The natives are reported to have attacked the troopers in fine style, and a hand-to-hand encounter followed, in which they were beaten off, leaving thirty killed. Capt. McFarlane's party lost one horse and several white troopers killed, but the number of the latter is still in doubt. The petrol, however, made a gallant standing'nst overwheiming odds and had the best of the skirmish.

Three Indunas, who have arrived at Buluwayo from the scene of McFarlane's fight with the natives, report that the young Matabeles fought the troopers agamst the advice of the chiefs, and the younger warriors could not be controlled.

chiefs, and the younger warriors could not be controlled.

Another fight has taken place near Inyata. A number of white settlers who were seeking refuge in the town were surrounded by hostile natives. The whites made a determined resistance, but all of them were killed except one man, who brought the news to Buluwayo. The natives captured thirty rifles and about 3000 rounds of ammunition, man, who brought the news to Buluwayo. The natives captured thirty rifies and about 3000 rounds of ammunition.

Selous, the hunter and explorer, at the head of thirty mounted volunteers, when these advices left Buluwayo, had gone to Mangwe to escort the mail coach. Dawson's patrol reports that the Matabeles are massing at Shanglai, Umzengwana, Matoppo and Inyati.

Capt. Dawson cautions the authorities against being thrown off their guard by the apparent calm and sgeming inaction of the natives. He points out the fact that only pure-blooded Matabeles are permitted to join the forces being massed for attack, and adds that this shows that the enemy must be numerous and confident. The pure-blooded Matabeles fight separately and with great skill. Consequently, Capt. Dawson insists that they will not be driven out of the Matoppo hills except by a large and well-organized force.

There was a bad scare at Buluwayo early in the week, owing to the report being brought to that town by some scouts that 2000 were within twelve miles of Buluwayo and threatening to march upon the place. But it now appears they went instead toward the Matoppo hills. The big "laager" at Buluwayo has been considerably strengthened by embankments of earth and obstructions of every kind, and that town is now believed to be impregnable. The chief Ulimo, or "God," who first incited the revolt of the Matabeles, has proclaimed himself King of Matabeleland, in succession to the late King Lobengula. The son of the late has proclaimed himself King of Matabeleiand, in succession to the late King Lobengula. The son of the late warriors and those of the Matappo hills in order to head the natives, has not vet reached there and when he does there is likely to be trouble between his warriors and those of the newly proclaimed King.

Cecil Rhodes had not reached Buluwayo, when the foregoing dispatches were sent, but he was expected hourly and was understood to be bringing with him a large force of volunteers escorting a wagon loaded with arms, ammunition and sup him a large force of volunteers escorting a wagon loaded with arms, ammunition and supplies.

Nobody here puts any faith in the report that the Boers have offered to assist the British in que-ling the rebellion in Matabeland. When the rumor is mentioned, people shrug their shoulders and say that if such an offer was made it was surely done in a spirit of sarcasm. The Boers have important matters of their own to attend to just now, and are very unlikely to take any steps which may strengthen the hands of the British administrators. Besides, it is believed that Rhodes is about the last man in South Africa the Boers would help out of a hole.

MASSACRE OF WHITES.

LONDON, April 2.—Sir Hercules Robinson, Governor of Cape Colony, has cabled to the government the details of the massacre of white men in Invani, in Matabelaland, including Messrs, Handley, Cass and Buford. Assistant Commissioner Graham was murdered by the Matabeles at Inyani on March 27. A general attack upon the whites followed, and they were entirely outnumbered and almost overwhelmed, being unable to make any effective standagainst the rush of native warriors.

They managed to get hold of a wagon, and with this they managed to effect a retreat of three miles. Their flight was perceived, and they were closely followed for the whole of the three miles. Some three thousand Matabeles then surrounded the wagon and put a stop to its progress. The hard-pressed whites were brought to their last stand, withnothing left for them but to sell their lives as dearly as they could. They kept the forces at bay as long as possible, and when the blacks closed upon them a fierce and desperate hand-to-hand conflict ended it. Overborne by superior numbers, six of the whites were killed. Donovan, the only survivor of the massacre, managed to escape by hiding in the long grass, creeping away undiscovered. Donovan estimates that fully fifty of the Matabeles were killed before the party of white men were overpowered.

LONDON, April 2.—A dispatch from Pretoria to the Times says that an important dispatch from Chamberlain was presented to President Kruger on Wednesday. In a friendly, but firm tone, it insists upon a redress of the Utilanders's grievances, requesting also a reply to the invitation to visit England. The firm attitude of the British is generally approved, but the Dutoh desire to control the government hinders a settlement.

LONDON, April 2.—The Secretary of State for the Colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, received a dispatch from the Governor of Cape Colony, Sir Hercules Robinson, today, saying that outlying stations about Buluwayo had been relieved, and Buluwayo is no longer considered to be in danger of an attack. Robinson hopes the revolt will be almost confined to Mattop Hills.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

Henri Rochefort "Sizes Up" Eng land's Present Undertaking. (BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIKE)

NEW YORK, April 2.—A special to the Herald from Paris says that the European edition of the Herald prints the following statement from M.

"There are two things to which Eng-land will never consent—the construc-tion of a bridge over the channel and nic Majesty's privy council, once said to me in London: 'We are perfectly willing to allow engineers to study the means of linking Great Britain with the continent of Europe, but the strait, which we call our "silver streak," is our defense, and we shall never allow it to be bridged.'

"Much of the same holds good with regard to Egypt. The English will let the powers continue to protest against the continual delays in evacuation, but the powers continue to protest against the continual delays in evacuation, but they are daily growing more determined not to quit. Her Majesty's government professes for the diplomacy of Europe, particularly for the diplomacy of France, an immense disdain. It believes, perhaps with good reason, that it is equal to the task of paying off all the Talleyrands and all the Metternichs of the Old World, and it is in this confidence in itself that it finds its chief strength. This, the British government, for that matter, has just proved by inducing the commissioners of the Egyptian debt, those of France and Russia excepted, to authorize a payment, which is nothing but a loan in disguise, out of the f.70,000,000 of the reserve fund of the debt.

"During the last two years of my exile in London, I was a witness of immense and incessant works, the object of which was the improvement of the fleet of the United Kingdom. The most important European complications served as a pretext for the construction of new warships, for which purpose millions of money were voted without counting them. In reality, England was aware that the insufficient reasons alleged for the maintenance of her troops in Egypt would not long pass muster and was making preparations for a possible war, to which, indeed, in my opinion, she has quite made up her mind, notwithstanding Prince Bismarck's insuiting prediction that England will astonish the world by her cowardice.

"The expedition to Dongola, persented in the sufference of the sufference of the construction of the maintenance of the construction of the constructio marck's insulting prediction that England will astonish the world by her cowardice.

"The expedition to Dongola, perchance to Suakim, was invented in order to justify a refusal to withdraw from Egypt the army which Lord Salisbury, on the contrary, has decided upon reinforcing. He is not a little pugnacious by character. He will evoke the specter of a Soudanese invasion in the event of a defeat comparative to that of 1884, when of the 10,000 men under Gen. Hicks, not one returned to tell the story of the disaster. He will rack his imagination to invent grounds acceptible or not for the everlasting prolongation of the British occupation, but whatever happens, whatever response he receives, or whatever objections may be made, he will not evacuate Egypt.

"This is my conviction, based upon numerous conversations which I had on the subject with several members of the House of Commons, particularly with Irish members, who, being opposed to English policy, had no reason to conceal its undercurrents from me. But although the danger of European diplomatic action troubles but little an English ministry which turns up its nose at Europe and its diplomacy, there is another peril rising up before British pride that causes terror to men like Lord Cromer, the most expert of all statesmen in Egyptian matters—the possibility of defeat before Dongola.

"With her fleet England can, in our part of the globe, hope to meet every possibility of defeat before bongon.

"With her fleet England can, in our part of the globe, hope to meet every move and hold her own against all comers. In the Soudan she can count only on the endurance of her soldiers, and the valor of her officers. In those the part was a good as another. comers. In the Soudan she can count only on the endurance of her soldiers, and the valor of her officers. In those pregions one man is as good as another, and a good Soudanese has many a time and often proved that he is equal to at least two other men. The Italians made a bitter mistake about the solidity of Meneick's forces and the English probably are diverting themselves with regard to the stubborn fighting qualities of Osman Digna's troops. The English papers are pleased to state that the death of the Mahdi caused disruption among the fanatics, who made of him a new prophet. That is, I believe, a serious error, in which crosschannel Chauvinism will be wrong to take stock in.

NEW YORK, April 2.—(Special Dispatch.) A hierophant has been found worthy to stand in the shoes of the late William Q. Judge and Mme. Blavatsky. worthy to stand in the shoes of the late William Q. Judge and Mme. Blavatsky. Who this hierophant is and just what his or her powers may be, is a secret, and is likely to remain so for some time. The discovery of the existence of this personage results from a secret investigation of the papers left by the late President Judge. It is more surprising because there has existed a wide-spread belief among the members of the society that no other person was qualified to hold the rank of an adept.

In the late Judge's safe were found documents which may be described as his theosophical will and testament, in which he formally declared his successor. In it Judge stated that in the event of his death the society, instead of finding itself deprived of a directing genius, would prove to have in its ranks a high adept, worthy to assume the leadership. So carefully, the document stated, had the identity of this individual been concealed, that it would remain unknown, save to a few. The will concluded with a solemn injunction that, for the space of one year, the name of the new hierophant should remain secret, except among those to whom the communication was addressed.

He communicates his mandates to those of the "inner circle," who in turn will in time convey them to the rank and file of the society. In addition to these direct and, presumably, verbating, communications, it is said that the members of the inner circle residing on the Pacific Coast, and in many distant States, have been mysteriously informed of the existence of the new hierophant. This is evidenced by the recent receipt at headquarters of numerous telegrams announcing the allegiance of the senders to the new head of the order."

WINDSOR (Ont.) April 2.—Mary A. Stewart, a fifteen-year-old white girl who lived with her parents in Colchester, in this county, was invited by a young negro whom she knew slightly to go for a walk. On the road near the woods five other negroes appeared on the scene, bound the girl hand and foot, gasged her, carried her into the woods, where the six men abused her. They left her suffering fearfully and too weak to move. After several hours she managed to crawl home. The negroes fied, and officers are in pursuit. There is talk of lynching.

New Directors—The Sweet Stuff.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The stockholders of the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company have elected the following directors: Rudolph Spreckels, C. S. Wheeler, M. S. Wilson and L. S. Dickson. Rudolph Spreckels was chosen president, C. S. Wheeler vice-president, and J. H. Sandford, secretary. C. A. Spreckels was elected general manager of the corporation.

Rudolph Spreckels submitted an interesting report. It showed that there is every promise that the world's product of sugar this year will be 1,000,000 tons short of the supply of several years past, which explained why sugar is selling for 4% cents a pound, as against 3 cents a pound last year. The estimated profits of the company on this year's yield of sugar is upward of $500,000.

(Santa Barbara Press:) A severe ouncement of the murderous methods sometimes adopted or at least coun-tenanced by strikers, is contained in an editorial of the Record-Union in commenting on the murder of the aged father, Mars, in San Francisco the commenting on the murder of the aged father, Mars, in San Francisco the other day because he and his sons chose to labor for their bread without consulting a union. It makes no difference, says that paper, that a strike was on in the city; the man murdered was not interfering with the strikers; he was laboring for himself, with his sons at his side, to support the family. He had not even—his family assert—undercut wages, but was receiving the union rate. He got the job before the strike began; he hired no men, but was aided by a one-armed son. He was a veteran of the war and fought with honor for his country, but died shamefully at the hands of a gang of men who chose to forbid him to work because he did not belong to their crowd. Labor interests suffer terribly when, in their name, such monstrous deeds as this murder are done. They cannot afford to bear the blood of this innocent man. No sort of apology or excuse can clear off the stain. It is said, of course, that the organizations of the labor unions not only did not justify the action of the murderers, but that they denounce it as warmly as any others. This is probably true. No organization would dare to counsel murder and outrage. Should it do so it would invite punishment that would be terrible. At the same time there will not be removed from the public mind the conviction that this murder was the outcome of the striker, and of the failure of the strikers to hold their men in hand.

It is said that the men who did the question if anything upon the farm pays as well as a flock of healthy, laying poultry. But, as with everything else, so with fowls, the success of the business depends upon the man. A "thoroughbred" poultryman will make money with any breed of fowls, whereas some persons never would get a dollar out of the operation. There is a great amount of detail and painstaking care required, especially when large numbers of hens are bred.

Now, while outside forage is largely curtailed, we must furnish animal and vegetable food to supply the place of the tender grasses and bugs that were formerly picked up on the range. Too much grain is fed in the winter. Clover, cabbage, the various roots and meat and bones are to be supplied the birds in liberal quantities by the feeder. We can hang up a head of cabbage and the hens will find beneficial exercise in tearing off the "bits." Clover rowen is, however, the par excellence of green food. It is presumed that it has been carefully stored in a dry place. Now, a few hours before it is intended to feed the clover, chop it finely, scald with boiling water, cover closely and allow the mass to steam well several hours: drain off surplus water, or add ground grain to absorb the same. In this way the clover forms food that is highly relished. Now, as to the medium for supplying animal food. Of course you may use ground beef scraps, boiled beef or numberless preparations more or less similar; but the writer has long used either fresh raw meat or green cut bones—here you find all the julces entire; there has been no loss by processes of steaming or boiling. Hens fed the raw fresh article show handsome blood-red combs and sing the tuneful lay of the dutiful "biddy." Green cut bone is superior, if anything, to the meat. We have good cutters upon the market, so that the hard bone can easily be ground into a size that hens can readily eat it. The bone is very cheap and very nutritious.

Of course it is to be supposed that poultry-keepers in general are making free use of wheat in poultry fee

GEN. WEYLER HAS HOPES.

Thinks He Can End the Cuban War.

He Modestly Says it Will Take Two Years More.

The Madrid Newspapers Jumping on "Madman" Call. to Confirmation of Gomes's Reported to Have Been on the Bermuda. An Editor's Offer.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIRE.) MADRID, April 2.—(By Atlantic Cable.) In an interview with Capt.-Gen. Weyler of Cuba, published here, he is reported as saying that he hoped to end the campaign in Cuba in two years. PALMA AND NUNEZ.

PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—A rumor is in circulation here that Tomas Es trada Palma, head of the Cuban revo lutionists in this country, and Col. E. Nuñez, one of the wealthiest and most of the wealthiest and mos were among those on the Bermuda. Since that expedition set sail Col. Nuñez has not been seen in this city, and inquiries as to his whereabouts ar unavailing. Mrs. Nufiez said tonight:
"My husband is out of the city. When he returns he may have something to he returns he may have something to say. We women are all interested in Cuban affairs, and it is not for us to know where our husbands are at this time. I know he is safe and will perhaps be at home tomorrow. It is stated that the object of Palma and Nuñez in going to Cuba is to ob-tain a personal knowledge of the condi-tion of affairs on the island, with a view tion of affairs on the island, with a view of laying the matter before the President. It was also said today that Sergt William H. Cox of battery A, N. G.P., and a number of privates in that command were among those on the Bermuda. Sergt. Cox is an expert artillery man and, it is said, was engaged to instruct Cuban recruits.

THAT "MADMAN" CALL NEW YORK, April 3.-A special to

NEW YORK, April 3.—A special to the World from Madrid says that popular excitement has been revived. The Madrid newspapers speak in terms of angry ridicule of the resolution introduced in the United States Senate by "that madman Call." as they style him. The enterprising Catalan seriously offers to raise a corps of 12,000 volunteers if the government will arm, equip, carry them across the Atlantic and land them on any coast of the United States, where the editor promises to make a raid into the interior and sustain his guerrillas, directly Cuban belligerency is recognized.

The government has not received confirmation of the report of Maximo Gomez's death, but Premier Canovas assures the Spanish reporters that the latest intelligence from Cuba shows that the insurgents are losing ground and courage so fast that the insurrection would be easily and promptly suppressed if the rebels despaired of recognition by the United States.

El Imparcial, on the contrary, comments upon a telegram from its special correspondent, in Havana, reporting that Gen. Weyler still thinks a two-years' struggle necessary to pacify Cuba. That paper says that Weyler cannot fully carry out his severe and indispensible policy because he fears the United States would protest. The article concludes thus: "The United States wants to protect the secessionists, and we must conquer them. Consequently, an understanding with the United States is impossible." the World from Madrid says that pop

WHERE ARE THE 170?
PHILADELPHIA, April 2.—If the latest advices from Puerto Cortez, which come by private, cablegram, prove trustworthy, the fillbustering steamer Bermuda is in a sorry plight. She is reported to have been selzed by the government of Honduras for violation of the neutrality laws, and to have suffered the confiscation of her entire cargo of guns, powder, dynamite, machetes and other munitions of war intended for the Cubans.

The messages which bring this disheartening news to the Cuban sympathizers explain very briefly why the Bermuda failed to land her vargo. They say that an attempt was made to hand on the southern coast of Cuba, near Cape Correntes, at night. She was discovered, however, by the crews of Spanish gunboats, which, like the Bermuda, had hidden all their lights from view, and were patrolling the very vicinity where she was to have made the landing. Information as to the exact place of landing had been procured from persone on board the Bermuda, and was cabled to Havana and known to Gen. Weyler before the vessel left Somers point, N. J.

What has become of the 170 passengers of the Bermuda is not known, but it is claimed they were landed on the coast of the province of Pinar del Rio. This is not credited, however, as it is plainly stated in Puerto Cordez that eleven hands left the vessel there, and none of them were able to disembark in Cuba. Moreover it would have been practically useless for them to have landed without the supplies of which Gen. Macco is so sorely in need. He has now an army of 6000 men poorly armed, and practically without food or the opportunity to get any, because of the destruction of all growing crops by fire.

The attempt to land was prevented by ordering all of the gunboats from the west coast to the northwestern and southwestern coasts of Cuba, and every southwestern coasts of Cuba, and every part of the coast within the district under control of the insurgents was watched day and night. Representatives of the Spanish government are now on their way to Puerto Cortez with all necessary evidence to condemn the Bermuda and her cargo. Capt. O'Brien and his crew still remain on the vessel, which is guarded constantly to prevent her escape.

event her escape WEYLER BADLY WORRIED. HAVANA, April 2.—The capture of Pinar del Rio and Santa Clara by the insurgents, who occupied them several hours and left them in flames, is a severe blow to the Spanish armies. Gen. Luis Maria Pando and Gen. Alvard Suarez Valdez, the military governors of the destroyed cities, have beer ordered to return to Spain by Gen Wayler.

The Captain-General is badly wor ried over the situation. He thought he had Pinar del Rio so strongly guarded that it was absolutely impossible for Maceo's forces to break in. But in the middle of the night of March 25 they came and literally laid the town in ashes. Of several hundred residences not more than a couple of dozen were left uniqued. left uninjured.
GOMEZ HAS SWAMP FEVER.

LAWRENCE, (Mass.,) April 2.-A young man in the insurgent army whose parents reside here, states that Gen. Gomez is suffering from swamp fever, but his condition is not considered dangerous. letter received in this city from a FITTING AS CRUISERS. NEW YORK, April 2.—A dispatch to the Herald from Madrid says that the pany have two ships they are fitting as cruisers, nearly ready for sea. Each is armed with six 12-inch breech-loading guns, and several rapid-firing guns will also be added to armament. Their speed is from eighteen to twenty knots. A careful study of her resources shows that in the event of war with the United States, Spain could muster every available merchant steamer she controls. Turned into warships they would furnish about thirty formidable cruisers.

SMUGGLED OUT. SMUGGLED OUT.

NEW YORK, April 2.—News has been received at the Cuban headquarters that a big expedition is being formed in the vicinity of Key West, Fla., for the insurgents. It is said that large quantities of arms and ammunition have been smuggled out of Key West on the schooners Dollie and Pearl.
The schooner Martha, owned by J. F.
Horr, ex-collector of customs, has left for Biscayne with a full cargo of arms to be transferred to some steamer.

Ex-Senator Sawyer of Wisconsin, who is in Washington, says there is no possible doubt as to the solidity of the Mississippi Valley for McKinley. "Our people," said he, talking about "seem to have made up their minds that the way to emphasize their disgust with the present unsatisfactory tariff is to nominate and elect the man whose name stands for ample and judicious protection. It is that reason more than any other that makes McKinley so popular through all the West. The present tariff has worked so unsatisfactorily, has brought so much distress and been such an utter failure in every particular, that the people are thoroughly disgusted with it, and they intend to show that disgust by nominating and electing McKinley. They will not apparently think of any other man in that connection." 'seem to have made up their minds

That surplus promised us by Secretary Carlisle was merely a dissolving view, never to materialize under Democratic administration.

Democratic administration.

The principles of modern Democratio statesmanship are to pay somebody else than your own citizens to do your manufacturing and to carry on your government upon borrowed money.

(Louisville Commercial:) Quay seems to be losing his Presidential grip upon his own State, a spontan yous epidenic to be losing his Presidential grip upon his own State, a spontan sous epidemic for McKinley having developed itself. Three counties have just held a popular vote in their primaries. In York McKinley received 4217; Quay. 598. Huntington gave McKinley double the vote of all others, and in Jancaster, a Quay stronghold, while the returns are not in, McKinley appears to be in the lead. (Anaconda, Mont., Standard, Dem.:) There is no denying the claim that McKinley's candidacy grows conthat Mckiniey's candidacy grows con-stantly stronger. Last week one or two New York newspapers printed carefully-prepared estimates which nominate him on the first ballot. The friends of Speaker Reed predicted last month that March would show a change in their man's favor. Thus far there cer-tally are no signs of a change in the tainly are no signs of a change in the tide. Last week McKiniey scored in the Wisconsin State convention. The Republicans there went on record in a strong resolution in favor of the gold basis.

WEATHER AND CROPS. Condition of Affairs During the Past Week.

Week.

The Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, for the week ending Monday, March 30, as compiled by Observer George E. Franklin, report:

The unseasonably warm weather which prevailed at the close of the last bulletin, continued during the first part of the past week, accompanied by cloudy and threatening skies, which culminated on the 27th and 28th, in general and copious rains. The latter part of the week was cooler with clear weather. The rains were general throughout Southern California; they were abundant and well distributed and were of exceeding great benefit to the country. Early sown grain will now fill out better and the late sown will grow rapidly; pasture was improved and the bean prospect greatly benefited; corn planting is in progress. Oranges are blooming well; peaches and prune trees are covered with bloom, except in some of the northern sections.

San Luis Obispo County. San Luis

except in some of the northern sections.

San Luis Obispo County. San Luis Obispo City—70-100 of an inch of rain fell during the week and has put everything on a promising footing.

Muslck—The week was very advantageous to crops, pasture and fruit; a warm, gentle rain fell, precipitating 1.09 inches up to date (March 28.) but the weather is still cloudy and threatening.

Ventura County. Bardsdale—After a warm spell of weather, it is now cooler; nearly an inch of rain fell on Saturday, greatly benefiting grain and bean prospects. Prunes are blossoming Saturday, greatly benefiting grain and bean prospects. Prunes are blossoming very evenly.

West Saticoy—Fog and rain were extremely beneficial to growing crops and the rains, while general, varied in the amount of precipitation from 75-100 of an inoh to 1.51 inches. The highest temperature was 92 degrees; lowest, 42 degrees; rainfall; 1.51 inches. Los Angeles County. Los Angeles City—The first part of the week was very warm with cloudy weather, which culminated on the 27th and 28th with rain amounting to 99-100 of an inch. The highest temperature was 8; lowest, 44, culminated on the 27th and 28th with rain amounting to 99-100 of an inch. The highest temperature was $9; lowest, 44.

Lancaster—The weather during the past week was good for farming; on Saturday there was a fine rain, which helps the grain.

La Cafada—The weather was favorable for all crops; grain is growing rapidly; loquats are ripening. Highest temperature 74 degrees; lowest, 43 degrees; rainfall, 1.03 inches.

Pasadena—The threatening, suitry weather culminated on the 28th, in a steady rain, 80-100 of an inch falling. It was a great blessing and farmers are very much pleased. Peaches and prunes are a mass of bloom.

Duarte—The weather of the past week has been favorable for all crops. The rainfall on Friday and Saturday came in good time and will insure good crops. Highest temperature, 89 degrees; lowest, 46 degrees; lowest, 46 degrees; lowest, 46 degrees; lowest, 46 degrees; lowest on the 28th, both amounting to 1.48 inches and making the total for the season, 9.75 inches.

Pomona—There was a light rain on March 26th, and a heavy one on the 28th, both amounting to 1.48 inches and making the total for the season 9.91 inches. Hay and grain in and about this place are looking well and have suffered but little for want of rain. Riverside County. Riverside City—The rainfall for the late storm was 1.11 inches, making a total for the season of 6.37 inches.

Orange County. Tustin—A little over an inch of rain fell during the week and it is of great benefit to the country. Early sown grain will fill out better, though much of it will be short; late sown will now grow rapidly. Apricots are well set; oranges are blooming much better than last year.

Capistrano—The splendid rain we have just had helped wonderfully; the week and it is of great benefit to the country. Early sown grain will fill out better, though much of it will be short; late sown will now grow rapidly. Apricots are well set; oranges are blooming much better than last year.

Jac Costa—The past week gave us good growing weather and crops improved greatly since the heavy rains of the first of the month. Some early sown grain fields of barley are commencing to head. A rain set in this morning (March 28th.) and up to noon more than half an inch had fallen. Corn planting is now going on; some late sown fields are being replowed and planted to corn. The weather has been warm for the season. Highest temperature, 70 degrees; lowest, 14 degrees.

POLICE COURT.

THE INTERPRETERS HAVE PLENTS

lavonian, Italian, Brasilian, Irish, German, Chinese and Other For-eign Prisoners—Few of the Of-fenders Are Native Americans—It is Generally So.

A large majority of the men and women who are tried in the Police Court are toreigners. There is always plenty of work for the interpreters to do. Yesterday was particularly fruitful n such cases.

Over in East Los Angeles is a little settlement of Brazilians. Wednesday evening Elias Esteban, one of the band, was arrested for striking his wife. The settlement of Brazilians. Wednesday evening Elias Esteban, one of the band, was arrested for striking his wife. The result yesterday was the same as is usual in such cases. In a mongrel Spanish dialect, the woman told Balliff Appel they were poor and had, eight children to support. Her husband came home Wednesday night and found that dinner was not ready. He flew into a passion and struck her on her mouth. The faithful wife said she had nothing against her husband and begged that the case end right there. The Balliff translated the story and the Brazilian was allowed to go without punishment. Much of the day was taken up by the trial of Bozo Zivorich for assaulting Rade Pasin. Both defendants and prosecuting witness and most of the other witnesses were Slavonians, unable to talk English intelligibly. Zivorich was found guilty and will be sentenced at 9 o'clock the morning of April 6.

Then there were several Chinese cases. Ah Lucy's trial for scaring a woman to whom he tried to seli a package of tea, was set for this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Justice Owens dismissed the Wong Chung lottery-ticket-selling case, which has been pending since March 10. Charlle Jung, accused of the same offense, will be tried at 9:30 o'clock the morning of April 9.

Angel and Maria Vitaghano and Cristina Baron were tried several days ago for throwing stones at Rocco Latronico and calling him names. Justice Owens took the case under advisement, Yesterday he rendered his decision. Two of the Italians—Mr. and Mrs. Vitaghano—he found not guilty. But Cristina Baron was adjudged guilty. She will be sentenced at 10 o'clock on the morning of April 4.

There was another Italian case up. George B. Candini was arrested Wednesday night for carrying concealed weapons. But instead of being tried on that charge, he was sent up to the County Jail to await an examination as to his sanity. He was later declared sane, so he will probably havatob be tried now for carrying concealed weapons.

August Dianta was arrested by Detective Bradish Wednesday ni tion as to his sanity. He was later declared sane, so he will probably have to be tried now for carrying concealed weapons.

August Dianta was arrested by Detective Bradish Wednesday night on a warrant charging him with petty larceny. J. B. Rogers, a North Main street saloon-keeper, had complained that Diantis a traveling vaudevilleperformer, had made his saloon a loafing place while off duty. He said that he left Dianta alone in the saloon and on his return found $45 gone from a safe. He caused the clown to be arrested, but yesterday asked to have the complaint dismissed.

There was also a German case. Henry Stadthagen, a restaurant man, was fined $5 for adulterating his milk. Perhaps the most unique case of the day was the trial of John Mills, a deaf and dumb man, for battering another mute. Justice Morrison's courtroom was full of mutes, who talked excitedly with each other during the whole progress of the trial, but without disturbing the quiet and serenity of the courtroom in the least. The case was continued until Saturday. April 11. It took longer to do the interpreting in this case than it would have done if it had been in any other tongue than the language of signs.

John Nolan was examined on a charge of assault with attempt to kill. It was shown that Nolan, while drunk, had slashed a man named Hubbell over the throat with a pocketknife. The row occurred in the Cape Horn saloon. Nolan was held with bonds fixed at $2500, not on this charge, but on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The vagrancy case against Clarence Watson, which has been pending since February 19, was dismissed.

Thomas R. Curtis paid a $2 fine for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk.

A. B. McCane, arrested for disturbing the peace at the time of the Rice 'riots,' was discharged.

The trial of W. M. Niles on a charge of keeping more than two cows at one place within the city limits, was continued until April 8, at 2 p.m.

Why the Main Supply Comes from the North and East.

"It is a matter of regret," said Mr. Howard, of the firm of Rodriguez, Howard & Co., commission merchants, yesterday, "that Southern California is terday, "that Southern California is unable to supply the wants of its people without drawing so largely from abroad. Many thousands of dollars worth of fruits and other products are sent out, but dairy products are not equal to the local demand. Much but-ter and cheese is brought in from northern counties, and from the East.

ter and cheese is brought in from northern counties, and from the East, but this ought to be produced at home. Still, it is not surprising that in the multiplicity of industries dairying should be neglected.

"At present butter is selling at wholesale for 17½ to 20 cents a roll of 1¾ pounds weight. That leaves a magnificent profit for the dairyman, does it not? Even the choicest two-pound rolls of creamery butter sell at 32 to 37½ cents per roll at wholesale. Do you wonder, then, that the farmers of Southern California prefer to engage in other industries. The dairymen can make more money by selling the milk than by making butter and cheese.

"The most of the local cheese is sold soon after it is made, much of it when not over three days old. These are the "mild" cheeses, so much in demand here. They come from Compton, Downey and Bixby station. Eastern cheese is three or four months old when it reaches this market. It is rich and stronger than that preferred by Facilita Coast buyers. THE CORE OF THE CASE. Hon. J. S. Clarkson of Iowa, who re The House Committee on Rivers and cently made a short and empty tour of the Pacific Slope in the interest of Harbors evinces a singular perversity Senator Allison's microscopic boom in the matter of the harbor appropriasays, in an interview: "In all the region tion for this Coast. It was next proposed to give San surprising to find Mr. Clarkson declar Pedro $5000 for continuing work on the ing that sentiment in this section is inner harbor. This sum, it is needless 'unformed," when he is well aware to say, would have been absurdly inthat it is overwhelmingly favorable to adequate for the prosecution of the the Ohio statesman, Mr. Allison's proswork. While this latter sum is by no means adequate, it is sufficient to Pacific Coast and mountain States will do some good, and is a step in the disend to St. Louis eighty or a hundred delegates instructed solidly for free rection of complying with the wisher of the people in the matter of consilver is also gratuitous. The free structing a first-class harbor for this coinage sentiment on the Pacific Coast is by no means so pronounced as the

For some occult reason there is a strong tendency on the part of the oittee on Rivers and Harbors to do that which the Southern Pacific corporation desires should be done, and withhold such action as the people demand. It is evident to the mos superficial observer that the railroad influence is potent with the committee. Whether the potency of its influence is due to the manner in which its memhers have been misled by misrepre occult. The Times will not presume to say at this juncture. It is as plain as anything can be, however, that the Huntington influence is to some extent shaning the course of the committee Whatever may be the basis of this fact, the fact itself is in the last degree humiliating and disgraceful.

One thing is apparent, and that is journals are shouting early and late Congress. An urgent effort should be made to get the entire amount of the original item, $392,000, for deepening the inner harbor at San Pedro, restored to the appropriation bill. There should also be incorporated in the bill the amendment proposed by Mr. McLachlan, making an appropriation of much money as may be necessary, for making a survey to ascertain the cost of carrying out the project proposed by Col. Benyuard for increasing the uni form depth of the Wilmington River to twenty-five feet. At the same time, the project for the outer harbor at San Pedro, which has already been surveyed and recommended by the board of government engineers should be boldly pressed. Not that we expect to get it at this time; but to have the project and the site further recognized and confirmed is to assure its ultimate realization. When the finances of the country are in better shape, the whole project can be put on continuing-contract system, making San Pedro the permanent deepwater harbor of this coast.

Though the appropriation of $50,000, as finally agreed upon by the commit tee, is smaller than is required, it is better than nothing, and it will be applied at the right place. Moreover, the Senators White and Perkins, should b able, and perhaps will be, to increase of the appropriation when the matter comes before Congress for final action. But even if the amount be not increased, the appropriation will be a distinct victory for the people against the corporation.

Throughout this entire contest the the Free Harbor League and its dele n to Washington, the great body merchants, business men and cities, have stood together, acting contently on one line, always demanddistinct recognition and im nt of the harbor site choses usively recommended by the ent's own experts, the board ers of the United States army.

CLEWS'S VIEWS.

Henry Clews, in his latest financia circular, has this to say of the pros pect that sound-money principles will be maintained in the forthcoming elec

"Those who look deeply into the sources of public sentiment are likely to feel entire confidence in the fina maintenance of the gold basis; but the large majority of those having accumulations to invest have no opinion which they are willing to trust in natter of such importance, and the therefore prefer to keep their means in an uninvested form, so that they may the more easily protect them-selves. This is the practical significance of the money question to Wall street. It is this uncertainty which prevents the negotiation of loans for new enterprises; which keeps railroad construction in suspense and generally causes people of means to prefer in-vestments about which no question afvestments about which no question affecting the money of payment can arise. It should be some assurance to this class of people that the drift of public opinion on this money question is distinctly shaping in favor of sound principles and methods. Public education upon such a complicated question must necessarily be alow, and we may have to welt yet come time before may have to wait yet some time before a final conclusion is reached. The main question is whether the popular sentiment is moving in the right direction; and on that point close ob-servers can have no second opinion. That being demonstrated, there is room for a large abatement of the people. Under the feverish excitement of the Presidential year, people may remain timid; but, as sure as the American people are honest, so sure is it that we shall never have any other than honest money. The fierce con-test on this issue pending the elections is likely to bring out that prosp

ADMIRABLY ILLUSTRATED.

Bida's designs in particular are strik ingly original, and among the great mass of illustrations which have been drawn by famous painters seemed the pest adapted to the style of the Jerusalem Journal. WHICH JESUS?

We little realize how much has been lost to history concerning those mo-mentous events which the Jerusalem vening Journal is now chronicling The evidence in the Gospel according to John, concerning these losses, we referred to in an editorial last Wednesday. Since the journals were commenced a new fact has been disvered in the recently-found Syriac ext from Mount Sinai. It appears at the robber whom the governor fered to release instead of Christ and ho is named Barabbas in our Bibles common name in Palestine. This coist would not fail to note, for it gives striking antithetic force to the question of Pilate, "Which Jesus do wish me to release, Jesus Bar-Abbas or the Jesus that is called Christ?"

This was probably made clear in the first drafts of the Gospels, and was the eason for the digression necessary to introduce Barabbas into the narrative of the trial. The application of the hallowed name of Jesus to a rioter and a murderer doubtless jarred on many ears, and for this reason some copyist finally left out the name but permitted the digression shorn of its point to re-

The local organ which is booming Huntington's private harbor-for a consideration-is careful to ignore at all times the fact that the Southern Pamonopoly controls the entire water-front at Santa Monica. This fact is one of the vital considerations which make San Pedro pre-eminently the true and proper site for improvement the government. If the water-front at Santa Monica were free of access to all competing lines of railroad the case be different. The government could, by the expediture of a sufficiently large sum of money, make a fairly good deep-water harbor at Santa Monica. But even in that case, the fact would remain that San Pedro is by far the better site, as the reports of the government engineers have fully shown. It has natural advantages which the open roadstead at Santa Monica can never possess. The local organ of the railroad monopoly carefully suppresses these facts, though it is well aware that the cost to the people of Los Angeles, in the way of higher rates for transportation, if the Southern Pacific monopoly be continued, would be far in excess of any temporary advantage which might accrue from the expenditure of $2,800,000 at Santa Monica. It is a deliberate attempt on the part of the railroad organ to bunco the people for the benefit of the railroad monopoly. But it will deeive no intelligent person.

Had the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors inserted in the bill an apsonable amount, for improving the harbor as it now exists at San Monica, and had they frankly stated that the appropriation was for that specific purpose and not for beginning the construction of an outer or deep-water harbor, such an appropriation for Sants Monica would not have met opposition from the Free Harbor League, from er of Commerce, the Chambe any source. But the action of the committee in virtually recommending s total appropriation of $2,800,000 for an outer harbor at Santa Monica, though no appropriation had been asked by the people or recommended by the government engineers, while only $392,000 was conceded to San Pedro for the inner harbor-this action, we say, was so manifestly a scheme to prevent the construction of an outer harbor at San Pedro that the friends of the latter site had no alternative but to oppose the Santa Monica Southern Pacific job. Representative McLachlan has no excuse for misunderstanding this point It will take a great deal of explaining on Rivers and Harbors right in this matter.

Knowing the express wishes and demands of his constituents on the haror question, Mr. McLachlan must hav been very obtuse, to say the least, if he did not discern the danger to San Pedro from the proposed appropriation of $2,800,000 for Santa Monica. When San Pedro's case was before the House Monica had been asked; hence the rival site was not discussed, and carcely mentioned, at the hearing given the Los Angeles delegation. Nor has any appropriation for that site ver been asked by any person or organiza tion qualified to speak for the people.

If Mr. McLachlan did not at once perceive, when the large appropriation for Santa Monica was proposed, that the friends of San Pedro had no other alternative than to oppose it, his perceptions are certainly not acute.

The sub-committees which have had in hand the drafting of a new Pacific railroad funding bill are about ready to report to their respective full com mittees. ticularly the national guard, and particularly the national guardsman of that lik, it is too comical for words.

Fancy, if you please, a military organization which has but one private which kéeps a bar open at all hours, and the liquids on draught in order that the regimental band may not wander from headquarters; which has a corps of a dozen or more pretty and shapely beauties of the other sex as a leading item of its equipment; which plumes itself on its ability to dance and to fight shy of fighting; which elects a dead man to regimental membership in order that the soldiery may give the corpse a rip-roaring, bang-up, smashing funeral, and which dotes on feace at any price as its fundamental principle, and you may gain a scant and shadowy idea of the military make-up which Mr. Hoyt's fantastic fancy has set upon the boards with all the merry side issues which have gone towers giving his plays such vogue from end to end of the continent.

Amid all the hurly burly and burlesquerie of the Hoyt militarism he places upon the scene one real soldier—an officer of the regular army, who is a guest of the Ransom Guards. This character is a clever one, and by comparison with the preview of the Ransom Guards. This character is a clever one, and by comparison with the pewter and galvanized warriors who surround him, he is a nugget of solid gold. As a foil for the clever fooling which goes on, he is immense. There is one time that there is a scrimmage. "The Blues," a rival regiment, passes the armory of the Ransom Guards, and such at the frightened and fleeing Ransomítes. They fly to closets, dive under tables, hide behind the bar, and otherwise make themselves no end scarce. It is then that the real soldier gets in, and shows his mettle. He fights back with his opponents' own weapons, and at last puts the savage "Blues" to ignominious flight, with a few shots from his trusty six-shooter, and thereupon the house rises at him. The glaring fault in this conceit of Hoyt's is his travesty on a funeral. It is a gruesome theme, and while one may concede that it is handled so cleverly as to compel laugh-ter, it is so coarse and offensive as to make every one who has ever death come close to him, resent familiarity, and to shudder at the death come close to him, resent the familiarity, and to shudder at the wild rollicking with so somber a subject. The company is one of the very best ever sent out to this wild and woolly country, with a Hoyt show. The writer of this notice saw the piece in New York and is free to assert that both as to the people and the accessories, the production is fully equal to the one given in Gotham at Hoyt's own theater. The girls (and a Hoyt play without girls is impossible,) are young, bright, shapely, dainty and winsome to a charming degree. They are afull of vivacity, and the way they set the merry pace is refreshing. Many of the songs and specialties are of the highest order. Lloyd Wilson has a capital voice, and sings three or four numbers in great fashion. Frank Lawton, who is the Ransom Guards lone private, is an artist. His whistling specialty and his bone solo were captivating bits of work. Clarisse Agnew, as Pony Luce, the alleged orphan, made a smashing big hit. She dances with the dainty grace of fairies tripping it among the leaves, and is as fetching a little woman as we have seen hereabouts for one while. And there are others and yet others who deserve all the plaudits they gained last night, as well as the praise withheld from them here because time presses, and space is short. Enough is it to say that they are "good people"—those of "A Milk White Flag," and that the play is one of the catchlest, brightest extravaganzas that has disported itself on these boards since

THE CIRCUS LICENSE.

It is Made to Fit All Classes o

C. G. Osborne, assistant general manager of the Wallace shows—billed to apear in Los Angeles on May 24, 25 and 26—is in the city in the interest of that aggregation. Mr. Osborne's chief concern just now relates to the matter of the circus license tay in force in Los the circus license tax in force in Los Angeles, which, for his show, exacts the payment of $500 a day for the circus and $50 a day for the sideshow, making a total of $1650 for the privilege of showing three days in Los Angeles. ome action toward reducing the lisnowing three days in Los Angeles. On Monday he asked the Council to take some action toward reducing the license tax, but his request was shelved in a summary manner that would discourage anybody but a circus man. Everybody has a weak spot for the circus, and even for the members of the Council the arenic displays in the great tent have a sort of fascination. A place that never has a circus is nowadays considered decidedly "jay" and even if the show does carry away great heaps of money—which it does sometimes—most people are able to stand the drain uncomplainingly. But the Council's experience with the circus last season is yet as a nightmare to the members of that august body, and the high license stands as a sort of retaliation for the episode. Mr. Osborne says that the license, as itstands, is practically a prohibitive one, and is higher than that of any other city of the United States for shows of the same class. He contends that for a 50-cent show $500 a day license is a ruinous exaction. He would be content to have the Council amend the ordinance by adopting a graduated scale applying varying fees to shows of different classes, rating them, say, by the number of cars used in their transportation—those requiring sixty cars or more called first-class; forty cars or more called first-class; forty cars or more called first-class; stoy with a will be show and the Sells-Forepaugh and Barnum shows, which will come later.

Mr. Osborne's show is, of course, first-class, but as a matter of fact, under the rule suggested, it would rank about second. He contends that while the Sells or the Barnum show, with much greater seating capacity might be able to pay $500 a day, the Wallace show should not be charged more than a proportionate rate, say $300 for the first day and $100 for each succeeding day. The assistant general mannager of the Wallace show is figuring on locating the big tents at Agricultural Park, just outside the city limits, a situation well served with railroad transportation, where the city license cou well served with railroad transportalon, where the city license could be evaded altogether. It will be a long way for the small boys to follow the band wagon, but for others the steam and electric cars offer sufficient rapid transit. A show at Agricultural Park will not only take away the money, but will also draw the crowds away from town, and retail merchants feel that they cannot have the circus too near their places of business. It is quite likely that if the question were left to the business men for decision they would unite in saying that the circus should not be altogether discouraged, and that a fair license tax, not out of proportion to what other kinds of business are required to pay, would be proper. Other shows come to the city, collect in a theater as much money as the circus expects and escape the high license. Smaller circuses can evade the provisions of the license ordinance by changing the character of the ring performances and becoming merely "tented exhibitions of vaudeville character and get through on a paltry $3 a day tax.

The larger shows must have their ring and be taxed as circuses. The showmen contend that a license of $500 a day well served with railroad transportation, where the city license could be get through on a pairty $3 a day tax.
The larger shows must have their ring and be taxed as circuses. The showmen contend that a license of $500 a day for a 50-cent show is a ruinous exaction, which none can afford to pay, and its enforcement would simply keep the circus away or make it exhibit outside the city limits, in either case depriving the city treasury of the case that would roped rings.

One part of the license ordinance which will not be so genrally disapproved is the exaction of a tax of $1000 though it and to the greatest on earth"—as all circuses are.

It is quite possible that the Council may yet see its way clear to amending the ordinance by adopting a varying scale of license tax, which will afford all needed protection to the public and yet be remunerative to the city treas-

LOCAL RATE WAR.

Travel Seaward Will Be Cheap This

The opening of the new electric road which is destined to be of financial benefit to the people who will travel to that seaside resort. The rates put in effect on the new line are 35 cents for one way and 50 cents for the round trip The rate that has been in force on th team roads has been on ordinary days 50 cents for one way, and 75 cents fo the round trip, and on Sundays and in the round trip, and on Sundays and in midsummer, 50 cents for the round trip. A car fare of 10 cents is to be also considered in addition to this. Thus the electric line rates are quite a reduction. The steam roads—the Southern Pacific and Santa Fé—have already met the rate with 35 cents for a one-way ticket and the prospects are that more reductions will follow. CHARGES OF RATE-CUTTING

DENVER (Colo.,) April 2.—Judge Hallett of the United States District Court, today listened to arguments or Court, today listened to arguments on a petition of the Denver and Rio Grande Railway for an order to restrain the Union Pacific, Denver and Guif Railway from violating the contract which controls the operation of the joint track of the two lines between Bessemer Junction and Walsenburg, by selling cut-rate tickets. The petition sets forth that receiver Trumbull's management of the Guif system is unbusiness-like and is injuring not only that system, but the railroad interests of the State. The Guif road's answer denies that its cut rates are in violation of contract and charges that an alliance detrimental to the Guif's interests has existed between the Denver and Rio Grande and the Santa Fé.

CHICAGO, April 2.—The Canadian Pacific today notified the chairman of the Transcontinental Passenger Asso-ciation that it intended to withdraw all the Transcontinental Passenger Association that it intended to withdraw all of its intermediate business from under the associated agreement. The business that it proposes to leave under the control of the agreement is that passing through to or from its Eastern or Western gateways, and without relation to its interchange of traffic with the Canadian Pacific steamship line.

The reason of the withdrawal is that the intermediate business of the Great Northern route has never been covered by the agreement, and the Canadian Pacific sees no reason why the business of another road should be exempted, and its traffic remain under the agreement. The chairman has declined to accept the withdrawal of the intermediate business, saying that the Canadian Pacific must take out all or none of its traffic from the agreement. The reason the traffic of the Great Northern is allowed to remain outside is because it was not included when the association was formed. The chairman has suggested, however, that the Canadian Pacific and other roads see if the Great Northern cannot be induced to place its intermediate business within the jurisdiction of the agreement.

A STRANGE ADVENTURE.

William S. Hale Slugged at Syracuse.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 2.-William S Hale, who disappeared on March 3 at Syracuse, N. Y., has turned up in this city with a strange story. He claims that he was slugged in the central rail-road yards at Syracuse, bound hand and foot and robbed of $240, and thrown into a box-car. For three days and nights he lay without food or water. His hands grew thin and he slipped the ropes off, managed to open the car door, and when the train slowed up, jumped out. He called at a farmhouse and learend that he was near St. Cloud, Minn.

For three weeks he was cared for by a farmer's family. Then, having regained his strength, he walked seventy-five miles to a point where he sold his mackintosh and obtained money enough to pay his passage to this city. He is still very weak.

Ample evidence of the benefits of cooperation has been given by the Oil Exchange. When, in spite of much opposition, the exchange was organized, the product of the local oil field ized, the product of the local oil field was selling at ruinous prices, there was only a very uncertain outside market, and the producers were in desperate straits. While they are not yet out of the woods, there is a gleam of daylight in their path. Prices are rising, the blind system of development has been abandoned, and a reign of common sense inaugurated. For all this thanks are due to the Oil Exchange. thanks are due to the Oil Exchange.

While it must be confessed, with butwhile it must be confessed, with but-ter selling at from 17½ to 20 cents a roll, that butter-making does not offer great inducements at present quota-tions, there should certainly be more interest manifested in dairying in Southern California. Butter is now cheap, the choicest dairy brands selling at only 37½ cents wholesale. But one has not a long time to look back when butter sold at 80 and 90 cents a roll, and a few years ago it sold as high as $1.20 for a two-pound roll. Conducted as a legitimate business, butter-making might be made profitable, even in Southern California.

The flag pole that will be erected at Central Park has been painted and will be ready in a few days to occupy its exalted position. The pole, which is 140 feet high has been donated by the W. H. Donegan showed his patriotism by hauling it gratis to the park, the electric lighting company will place it in position without cost to the flesta; the Baker Iron Works donated the necessary iron work, and the halyards were furnished free by the Union Hardware and Metal Company. The city, therefore, will own the largest flag pole without any expense, and John F. THE FIESTA QUEEN.

It is the intention of the Executive Committee to formally announce today the nome of the Queen of La Fiesta. There is no further need of withholding the fact that Mrs. Mark B. Lewis will be the Queen, and the formal announcement to that effect will be no surprise. The Executive Committee thanks the newspapers that withheld the fact of Mrs. Lewis's election, and helped to envelop in mystery the identity of the Queen until public curiosity had been stimulated to a high pitch. The mystery was considered advisable for the interests of La Fiesta. THE FIESTA QUEEN.

Teachers' Association was almost twothirds women. Of course this is not so strange a thing, since it is true throughout our country. Most of these women appeared to be intelligent, thoughtful and appreciative. I really thought such looking women should have some ideas about child-training and child-growth. But they were very conspicuous by their absence from the platform and from all discussions.
With two or three exceptions women had no voice in the proceedings.

The ideas advanced came from wellworn oracles, and the ideas were almost as well-worn as the "oracles."
Indeed some of them—oracles or ideas—are so worn that they might profitably be retired on half-pay to give place to those more in sympathy with children and modern pedagogics.

But what I am after is to know where the women were. Why did they not come to the front? Are so many of them struggling in the ranks of education with no ideas? If such a majority of our teachers is women, are their experience and testimony worth nothing? And would not the voice of a woman have been a diversion from the "One Teacher High School," from motions and amendments, and from resolutions, etc.?

Possibly I am wrong, but I felt an inward faith that a woman could have given some inspiration to this everyday teaching pusiness. Surely it cannot be that these women have no ideas; but if they have, why did they not express them? Was it the timidity and modesty of the sax? Or was it the domineering man that restrained her?
In this time of the "new woman" I should think she has become bold enough to hold her own. Why might not some aggressive new woman have added an idea to the "legal and illegal influence of the State University" by telling us how to feed children the "bread of life?"

What is the use to the world of ideas unexpressed? What is the use of power without lifting up? And what is the use of women who cannot talk?
Do we wish them for ornaments, or do we fear they may carry away the laurels? Why may we not have the strength, the inspiration

Have you seen Mt. Shasta, the great painting by Professor H. A. Streight? Only once in a lifetime is such an opportunity afforded to see such works of art free of charge. Professor Sackett still draws the great crowds; his is truly a wonderful art; come in today and see the pictures, and have your Silhouette cut.

The Easter Millinery is drawing a great trade to the Millinery Department; get your orders in early; the rush the next two days will be great, it always is; this is the only place in the city where you can buy fine Sailors trimmed ready to put on for 50c; the Trimmed Hats are things of beauty this season; the profusion of flowers and the gay

Dresden ribbons make the Millinery Department exceedingly attractive; visit the Millinery Department today; don't put it off till the last moment.

There is no use waiting for dressmakers these days; a separate Skirt and a Shirt Waist and you have a Dress that will give perfect satisfaction; think of the price, $1 for a good Shirt Waist and $3.50 for a separate Skirt. A nice allwool Serge Suit in either black or navy for $8, a dressmaker will charge you that much for the making alone; Capes $3.50, some as low as $3, finer ones for $5 and $6; the new Capes are much fuller than they have been, they accommodate the big sleeves; Velvet Capes in new designs; Silk Capes; Serge Capes; all in the latest styles.

There is no Silk Department that can show you so many new Silks at a low price; the Silk Department is where the center of attraction lies this spring; Silks are in the greatest demand; the styles for Dresses, separate Skirts and for Shirt Waists will be the means of creating a larger demand for Silks of all kinds; we are showing the largest line for $1 a yard; great quantities are being sold from the 75c line; we have a very attractive assortment for 50c a yard in the new Dresden effects. Have you seen the new plaids? $1.25 a yard; the new Black Taffetas for $1, brocades, stripes and plain. We will sell a quantity of extra heavy Fancy Taffetas today for $1 a yard, real value $1.25.

Ing her talk on the women of India.

Chief Crowley of San Francisco has written to Chief Glass, asking if he can find any trace of a four-year-old girl, who was brought to Los Angeles two years ago by Mrs. Hiram Rattan. It is said Mrs. Rattan, shortly after reaching Los Angeles, married Irwin Porter. She left the city after living with him a year, leaving the child with people unknown to the authorities.

Robert Mack was arrested at Redondo Wednesday afternoon on a charge of robbing the Southern Pacific Company's uptown office at San Pedro. He secured only a small amount of booty. The proof against him is strong, for J. B. Bennett, the assistant agent, saw him hanging around the station Monday evening, and some of the stolen property was found upon Mack's person.

The church had been decorated by the friends of the bride, in a manner only possible in California, with a profusion of flowers, ferns and palms. The bride was attired in an elegant gown or cream duchesse satin, en train, with regulation veil and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Miss Grace Moffitt, wore white tulle over satin, and the four bridesmaids, Misses Mamie Mendenhall, Martha Arnold, Fannie Wheelock and Lillian Williamson, were beautiful in gowns of pink, blue, lemon and heliotrope albatross cloth, with full lace oversleeves and trimmings of satin ribbon. The groom was attended by F. W. Prince of Los Angeles as best man and Messrs. Robert Maclay, Charles Maclay and Charles Moffitt. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Kate P. Maclay, which was attended by upward of three hundred guests, among whom were many Angelefios. Mr. and Mrs. Walker left for Coronado after the reception. They will make a tour of Southern California resorts, and will be at home after April 20 at No. 1014 West Thirtieth street, Los Angeles.

Among the guests were: Mrs. Trogden of San José, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Widney, Dr. Maclay, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Lyndall, Dr. J. P. The Beggar Tried to Escape.

Detective Goodman found George Brooks and John White asking for the Brooks and John White asking for the price of a night's lodging last evening and promptly arrested them both. Just as they reached the Police Station both men broke away from his grasp. One turned up Second toward Spring street and the other in the opposite direction, toward Broadway. But neither one effected his escape. One ran plump into the arms of Clerk Hensley and one into the friendly embrace of Officer Phillips. So Brooks and White went back and in to the City Jail. back and in to the City Jail.

Mrs. M. Langston of Pryor Creek, Indian Territory, is 36 years old and well known at Pryor Creek and at Wagoner, her former home. Her husband, Mr. Ed Langston, is and has been for some years a resident of the Cherokee Nation. Under date of July 29, 1895, in an interview with Mr. M. J. Williams, of the Pryor Creek Constitution. Mrs. Langston said: "For some years I have suffered from dyspepsia and stomach troubles, and all the doctor's potions added to starvation dieting afforded me no relief. I had about given up in despair when I was induced by an advertisement to give Ripans Tabules a trial. I am free to admit I had no faith in them, but after using them one week I could eat food that I had discarded ments before. This encouraged me to continue using them and now I am happy to say my dyspepsia has disappeared and I am no longer troubled. I owe all to Ripans Tabules and advise my friends to try them.

The Jews."

The Jews who followed the crucifixion party were highly disgusted when they saw the description that was given of their victim. "Why." they argued, "the people will think that some chieftain of ours is suffering this great indignity." They begged Pilate to change it, but were refused.

Around the central sufferer the crowd gathered; there were the Jewish rulers, the soldiers, the priests, the scribes and the elders. Many taunts were uttered as he hurg there, but to all their mocking he maintained a dignified silence. But seven times he spoke in the agonizing hours that he hung, conscious of all that was going on. That the bodies might not hang on the crosses through the high Sabbath day, the Jews went to Pilate and proposed that the severer punishment of bone-breaking be given and the sufferers killed. But while they were gone Jesus startled the soldiers by loudly calling:

Joseph of Arimathæa Gives His Tomb to Jesus.
(Matt. xxvii, 57-61; Mark xv, 42-47; Luke xxiii, 50-66; John xix, 38-42.)

Closely folowing the deputation of Jews to Pilate asking that the crucifixions might be shortened, came Joseph of Arimathaea with a request for the body of the dead Galilean. The Governor was surprised that death had come so soon, but on hearing it confirmed, he gave the asked for permission. Joseph thereupon took the body from the cross to his tomb near by; and along with Nicodemus, his colleague in the Sanhedrim, they embalmed it and laid it away. None of the former followers of the Nazarine were present, but many of the women from Galilee watched the proceedings from a distance.

The Strange Darkness

The Strange Darkness
For three hours this afternoon, a peculiar gloom has spread over our city and, judging from reports, also over all Judea. Many of the northern pilgrims see in it the disfavor of God with the assassination of their leader and some of the priests are deeply concerned. The lingering in the sluggish air of the smoke from the sacrifices last night has been suggested in explanation of the darkness, but no one is positive as to the cause.

The Cutting of the Wave-sheaf.

The afternoon session opened with a vocal sole, after which the question box was again opened and a number of questions answered, discussion occupying considerable time.

Following this came the reading of a paper on "Mitigation of Damage by Frost," by F. C. Finkle, originator of the theory of fighting frost by raising the dew-point of the atmosphere. He said in part:

"The recent experiences of horisculthe dew-point of the atmosphere. He said in part:

"The recent experiences of horticulturists in Southern California have shown conclusively that the question of damage to fruit crops from frosts is one which can no longer be ignored. In the earlier history of horticulture in Southern California, this question was regarded as one of no material consequence to the industry. It was commonly held that frosts would occurronly in certain localities, and that such localities were to be avoided, while in the favored sections, or so-called "warm zones," no danger was to be apprehended. This led to the imaginary classification of the country into 'frost belts' and 'frostless belts,' which were regarded as having certain fixed boundaries; and this popular delusion still exists, to a great extent, even after all these years of costly experience and experimentation.

"But Jack Frost was not so easily relegated to the days of the days of the season."

exists, to a great extent, even after all these years of costly experience and experimentation.

"But Jack Frost was not so easily relegated to the domain where man would place him. He still persisted in claiming as his rightful empire what Nature had given him, and such extensions of it as the handiwork of man made possible. A realization of this gradually dawned upon the masses engaged in horticulture as they year by year were forced to add figures to the rapidly-growing column of their ledger representing the loss from damage by frost. The progress in this direction, however, was necessarily slow. Man is a hopeful being, and his view of dire events is more apt to be optimistic than pessimistic. Each year's damage was therefore made to appear as small as possible, and the possibility of its recurrence was deemed so remote as to be unworthy of much consideration. But at the present time this is no lon-But at the present time this is no longer a fact, and it is now literally true that the great mass of intelligent and thinking fruit-growers have come to a full realization of the fact that no full realization of the fact that no locality as a whole is exempt from damaging frosts, and that time is continually augmenting the severity of frosts and increasing the danger in all irrigated horticultural sections. In this way the following and other pertinent questions have arisen to claim the attention of the public.

"What are the laws governing the distribution of frosts? What localities, if any, are wholly exempt from damage by frost? Is the climate of Southern California changing so as to make frosts more general, severe and frequent? If so, what is the cause of such changes, and to what extent may we expect them to take place? Is it possible to avert the damage caused by frosts, and if so, what are the best and most economical methods to be pursued?

"In what follows it will be our pursued."

"In what follows it will be our pur-pose to discuss these and kindred ques-tions briefly, treating them from a purely scientific and practical stand-point.

"Frost is the direct result of a is so small that it falls below the freezing point before the condensation of vapor begins, and it would seem no difficult matter to determine at what point this is likely to occur. In order to understand this matter fully it is only necessary to remember that heat will rarefy and expand the atmosphere, while cold will increase its density and weight. Hence in accordance with the universal law of gravitation the cold air, which is the heavier fluid, will settle in the lower places, while the warmer and lighter air will remain above it and touch the surface along the higher points.

But the admission of this fact without understanding the science of pneumatics has been the cause of serious errors and unwarranted assumptions among horticulturists. It has led to the very erroneous conclusion that the higher a point is above the sea level is so small that it falls below the freez-ited areas control the distribution of "Frosts never occur in semi-tropical climates, when there are large bodies of atmosphere of unequal temperature, which can produce strong currents or winds. In such a case the interminging of the air strata and the frictional treat researched by their rapid movewinds. In such a case the intermingling of the air strata and the frictional heat generated by their rapid movements tend to prevent a sufficient fail in temperature to cause damage from frost. But it is when the air strata are of nearly equal and uniform temperature in the early part of the evening that frosts occur during the following night. In such a case, particularly when the air is dry so as to rapidly radiate heat supplied to it, the loss of the heat from the air more rapidly than it is supplied from the earth and vegetation causes it to divide itself into warm and cold strata. These strata are not sufficiently extensive to cause wind currents, but will flow or gravitate at an almost imperceptible velocity, until they settle in the places of relatively low elevation. Their movement is so slight that they travel only a small distance, and it is therefore a fact that cold air may settle into a depression and cause a frost at that point, while only a few hundred feet away on all sides no effect of frost can be discerned.

The warmer air will then assume a plane directly above these strata and extend up to a point where the rarefaction of the atmosphere and conse-The warmer air will then assume plane directly above these strata and extend up to a point where the rarefaction of the atmosphere and consequently rapid radiation of its heat again makes the air cold and creates frost. Thus it is that in semi-tropical Southern California, we have in all localities some damage by frost at the relatively low elevations of those localities, as well as at the very high ones, while there is a middle plane where the danger is at a minimum.

"The boundaries of these planes or zones are not fixed ones, however, since a very dry atmosphere and a long period of rapid radiation often create so much cold air in the lower stratum that it spreads over many points, which period of rapid radiation often create so much cold air in the lower stratum that it spreads over many points, which heretofore have experienced no ill effects from frosts. It therefore frequently happens that frosts of such general scope occur that no place in a locality is exempt, which is caused by the presence of such large quantities of cold air that even the most relatively high points are submerged with cold air, relegating the warmer strata to a plane above the cultivated area. The above defines the true laws governing the distribution of frosts, which may be summarized as follows:

"(1) An absolute sea level elevation of any height can not insure safety from frosts.

"(2) In any locality the relatively low places receive the most frequent and severe frosts.

"(3) The relatively high places are the safer, but are not wholly exempt from damage.

CLIMATIC CHANGES AND THEIR

CAUSE. It is generally accepted by the people of Southern California that certain climatic changes have been occurring in recent years. These changes, in so far as they relate to the subject under diswind currents and a lowering of the

"The effects, which have been observable on the wind currents, are that they have been checked and deflected at certain points, so as to alter both their force and direction. And the difference in temperature has been shown, to take place, in most instances, at points where irrigation has been practiced to a considerable degree, and for a long period of time. Of the fact that these changes in climate have actually occurred there can be no doubt. . . .

in climate have actually occurred therecan be no doubt. . . . "The effect upon local winds is directly traceable to two causes, namely, the growth of trees and the irrigation of the soil, while the lowering of the temperature is caused by irrigation alone. The accumulations of growing trees in large orcharded districts present more or less resistance to the natural movements of winds and defect the stronger currents upward.

the first few years after its inauguration the effect is not perceptible. But as it extends over a great many years the result is that the subsoil water begins to approach the surface. It does not require the same length of time in all localities for the subsoil water to reach the top of the ground, or so near to it that the ground will always be kept wet. The time depends upon the slope and character of the land. On land having a steep incline and a porous soil, the water will percolate away with so much ease, that it requires a long period of irrigation to make the supply of subsoil water so great that it cannot percolate away without raising the plane of saturation to the surface of the ground. But on land consisting of compact soil, particularly when on a steep slope, it requires but a few years to make the plane of saturation nearly coincident with the ground surface. The experiences in all irrigated countries show that this takes place, so that after a time a drainage system becomes advisable in connection with an irrigation system. If a drainage system cannot be afforded, great moderation in the use of water must be observed, in order to avoid converting the land into a swamp. But even when these precautions are observed as much as is possible, the space with great rapidity, the result is a severe and damaging frost....

PREDICTION AND PREVENTION.

"Before it can be asserted positively that frosts can be prevented it is essen-tial that their advent be predicted with confidence. If such predictions can be made a sufficient length of time in advance of the frost to enable the necessary preparations to be made for securing protection, then, as will be seen later, it is an entirely practicable and feasible proposition to obtain protection. In this connection it is proper that we should acknowledge the service rendered by the Weather Bureau in predicting frosts. Since the inauguration of this service a few years ago, all general forsts have been predicted with great success, and only when purely local frosts have been predicted with great success, and only when purely local frosts have occurred has the Weather Bureau failed to predict them. It is therefore safe to assert that, for all general frosts, the fruit-growers of Southern California can rely upon the predictions made by the Weather Bureau. Still it must be admitted that where so large an area is covered by the service as at present, it is impossible to rely solely upon the builetins of the Weather Bureau, except that when these are given out, a general frost of unusual severity may be expected, which makes the taking of extra precautions necessary.

"When a large amount of moisture is present in the air it does not have to fall to a very low temperature before condensation begins, after which any further fall is rendered impossible by reason of the heat given off in condensation. But, on the contrary, when the quantity of vapor in the air is scanty, the temperature has to fall much lower for condensation to begin, and when it must fall below the freezing point of water before the vapor in the air pegins to condense, a frost takes place. The determination of the dew point is, therefore, the matter of greatest importance in predicting a frost, since there can be no danger when the atmosphere carries enough moisture to cause condensation above the temperature at which water freezes.

"But is it possible to secure a certain and economical method for affording protection against frost? In answering this question, it is neces

The cheaper method of doing this is to erect poles between the tree rows with wire stretched across their tops, and by rolling out canvas across the entire orchard with curtains to inclose the

When light frosts occur, which are caused by the dew point being but little below freezing, this method will prove efficacious.

SMUDGE FIRES. "The smudge-fire method has unpresent more or less resistance to the natural movements of winds and deflect the stronger currents upward, while the gentler winds are turned in other directions. This produces a calm among the orchards, which is conducive to the chilling of the atmosphere. But the fact that plants are not usually frozen close to a windbreak is sometimes cited to prove that windbreaks are not instrumental in chilling the atmosphere, but this fact is due to the partial penetration of wind currents through the windbreaks causing a vortex or eddy of air near them.

"The effect upon the local winds caused by a long continued irrigation accused by a long continued irrigation of the soil in a locality is closely allied to the question of the effect of irrigation upon the temperature, and the two will therefore be treated together. In order to discuss these matters it is necessary to understand the exact effect of irrigation upon the soil. For the first few years after its inauguration the effect is not perceptible. But as it extends over a great many years the result is that the subsoil water being the first from this method will defined to the discussion produces moisture, particularly if the combustion is imperfect, as with smudge fires. But on the other hand, the amount of moisture the other hand, the amount of moisture the other hand, the amount of moisture of an unnecessarily large quantity of fuel, which renders the method expensive. INDUCING WIND CURRENTS. "It has been maintained by some that frosts can be prevented by cre-ating artificial wind currents in the ating artificial wind currents in the atmosphere. It is undoubtedly true that if such wind currents can be generated and kept up during the night, no frost would be possible, as the mixing of the air strata, etc., would raise the temperature. But unfortunately all the methods suggested for raising the wind are so costly and utterly impracticable that no value can attach to them.

SPRAYING WITH WATER. "This method was proposed by W. H. Hammon, forecast official of the United States Weather Bureau at San Fran-

States Weather Bureau at San Francisco, Cal., a short time after the writer invented the process of supplying vapor to the atmosphere by the evaporation of water. It involves the correct principle in frost protection, since the spraying of the vegetation and of artificial fires will supply moisture to the atmosphere, thereby raising the dew point and temperature of the air and conserving the heat furnished to it. There can be no question about the method being efficacious in preventing frosts, but it is well to consider its economical aspects and the probable results of it practical application, before it be recommended for general use.

PROTECTION BY EVAPORATION.

the content of the use of variety must be observed, in order to avoid converting the land unto a swamp. But even when these precautions are observed as much as is possible, the ground inevitably becomes wet at the surface and the underlying sheet water rises almost to the top. The effect of this can only be to lower the temperature of the atmosphere very rapidly as soon as the sun has set, so that evaporation from the wet ground has procaitically ceased. The expanation of this is that the wet ground has become a stower conductor of heat than the dry ground, and during the day it absorbs to the atmosphere were rapidly as soon as the sun has set, so that evaporation, and during the day it absorbs the consumed by exponential to the set of the recommended for general use.

from it is communicated directly to the water. In this way the heat is all expended in evaporating the water and not in rarefying the surrounding air.

"Oil is undoubtedly the cheapest fuel at present obtainable in Southern California, as well as the most easily handled, and for these reasons has been considered the most available. It can be applied by means of a burner under the water vat in a jet of such volume as may be required, and may be allowed to burn slowly all night without further attention. In any system of frost protection the cost of attendance is a very important item, and anything which requires a large number of all-night attendants will surely become burdensome and costly.

Moran's

Magnificent Masterpiece.

The attention of connoisseurs and critics in the world of art, and of all people of culture and refinement, is especially called to the fact that the lithographic reproduction of this celebrated painting was made under the special personal direction of the artist Moran himself. Every one of the twenty-one component colors used in the printing was first approved by the artist before being put upon the lithographic stone.

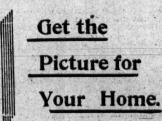

> The Grandeur of the Gorge Portrayed.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado, that wonderland of the world, pictured by an artist whose conception was striking, resistless, grand. Thomas Moran's painting, "THE GRAND CANYON OF THE COLORADO," Was the artistic triumph and sensation of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago. The faithfulness of the artist in picturing the awful grandeur of the gorge; the delightful delicacy with which he has touched the rolling clouds of mist; the masterly manner in which he has handled Nature's coloring; that melodrama of flame and gold, and rose and wine and azure, is altogether superb.

19th Century Genius.

It is only high genius that has made possible the reproduction of such a splendid work of art, without the loss of a single sun glint; with all the heights and depths of shade luminously portrayed—a reproduction so real that the master whose hand guided the brush-strokes on the original canvas says of it, in effect: "As perfect as perfect can be."

It is this great lithographic triumph, this magnificent reproduction of Moran's famous picture, 22 x x38 % inches in size, that THE TIMES has arranged to supply to subscribers. THE RESULT OF THE DIRECTORS

Three bids were received, the bidders being Ed Ryan, the present holder, Peter Webber, the well-known horseman, and Thomas H. Williams, the Peter Webber, the well-known horseman, and Thomas H. Mr. Ryan bid; $50 per month for three years, $25 per month for two years and $10 per month for two years and $10 per month for two years and $4000 for three years, Mr. Williams's bid was $331 per month for the first year, and $356 per month for the second and third years if he extended the lease. The directors unhesitatingly accepted the last-mentioned bid, and the lease will be at once forwarded to Gov. Budd for his approval, such telng the arrangement made when the Governor was last in Los Angeles.

Mr. Williams, the youthful but successful bidder was seen at the Hollenbeck vesterday afternoon, and he outlined his plans in connection with the track. "I shall be glad if anyone will take the saloon and the charge of the track off my hands at a nominal rent, as I have no time to run a roadhouse. We, that is, myself and my colleagues, expect to spend several thousand dollars in building improvements at the track, such as stalfs, etc. We are too buty in San Francisco to do anything at once down here, but when the racing season commences in California we shall begin work.

"We shall start in next winter and cive meets about every thirty days, the meets to last two or three weeks at a time. As we have already done in San Francisco, we shall interest eastern owners of trotting and running stock, and make the park a great wintering place. By giving meets for these peore, and giving them a chance to earn their expenses while here, we hope to thoroughly interest them in the scheme. My idea is to give Los Angeles good racing and as much of it as it will scard. I made the proposition stand in San Francisco, and I have no doubt we shall do duite as well here."

Exposition Medals

Information has been received at the hamber of Commerce from the Award formittee of the Cotton States Inter-Committee of the Cotton States International Exposition, lately held, at Atlanta, that the medals awarded to Southern California exhibitors will be forwarded to the State Board of Trade of California within three weeks. About seventy medals will be forwarded to the Chamber of Commerce here, for distribution to those entitled to receive them. It is further announced that the World's Fair medals, about three hundred in number, will be here this month for distribution. Exhibitors at the two expositions to whom medals were awarded will not have long to wait for their presentation.

Delayed by Intraction

While reconstruction of the southern approach of the viaduct on San Fernando street has been delayed by injunction proceedings, the relaying of the track on Downey avenue is going rapidly forward. A gang yesterday was putting in the rails at the intersection of Downey avenue and Truman street. It was intended to have the line past River station open by next Tuesday, but pending the disposition of the case in court cars are being sent around over Buena Vista street to Truman, where they are switched south to Downey avenue and run out to the end of the line east of the city. While reconstruction of the southern

The Sunday-closing Fight.

Sam Christopher, a First-street barber, and E. R. Holman, a young man employed by the Clerks' Union to canvass for signatures to a petition in favor of Sunday closing, were arrested some days ago on a charge of disturbing the peace by a row in Christopher's barber-shop over the Sunday-closing question. Justice Owens took the case under advisement and yesterday rendered his decision. Holman was declared innocent. Christopher was found guilty. He will be sentenced at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Much amusement was caused by the jokes invented to bewilder the guests. At the foot of the stairway stood two remarkably natural dummles, dressed as ladies to whom profuse analogies. At the foot of the stairway stood two remarkably natural dummies, dressed as ladies, to whom profuse apologies were made when the gentlemen were obliged to pass in front of them. A punch bowl filled with colored salt water, which was later changed to delicious punch, was presided over by Ivy Schroder and Jennie Henderson. The score cards were of rough paper, heart-shaped and tinted, and partners were found by the piecing together of the fragments of quotations on each. The highest scorers received the booby prizes and the lowest, the first. Mrs. Frank Owens received the lady's first, a silver letter opener, and Mrs. Seymour the booby, a bunch of paper carnations. Mr. Teed drew the booby prize, a cutglass cologne bottle, and Mr. Houx, the first, a silver mustache cup. The rooms were elaborately decorated with flowers. Red and green were used in the hall, pink sweet peas in the drawing-room, acacias and yellow roses in the dining-room. There was a graceful portiere of red and plnk rosebuds in the dono between the parlor and library, and one of Lady Bankshire roses between the library and dining-room. There were eleven tables.

A DINNER AT REDONDO.

A DINNER AT REDONDO. H. B. Ainsworth entertained at din-ner at Hotel Redondo Wednesday even-ing, in honor of Capt. G. G. Mullin's ing, in honor of Capt. G. G. Mullin's birthday. The table decorations, which were all in pink, were exceedingly pretty. Carnations were used in profusion, and the birthday cake was a gorgeous affair, illuminated with flaming candles. The dinner was followed by dancing in the balliroom, and a special train conveyed the party to the city late in the evening. Those present were: Capt. and Mrs. Mullins, the Misses Anna Mullins, Mary Mullins, Ethel Mullins, Cash, Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hoyle, Dr. Brook Alexander, Messrs Luyties of St. Louis, Austin, Kellam and Ainsworth.

AS YOU LIKE IT CLUB.

The "As You Like It" Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Charles Pemberton, at a Chinese afternoon yesterday, at her home on West Ninth street. The drawing-room was like a section of an art gallery, with its rare and beautiful Chinese curios, banners, umbrellas and screens. Red roses were massed about the room with charming effect. Chinese fan-tan was the game played, Chinese money being used. The tally cards were of red paper, inscribed with hieroglyphics, and the souvenirs were chop sticks. Under each table was a large bowl of mandarin oranges for the delectation of the guests. Mrs. Workman won the first prize, an exquisite Chinese teacup; Mrs. Jevne, the second, a Chinese framed picture; Mrs. Hamilton, the third, a beautiful rose bowl. The consolation, two dancing dolls, was bestowed upon Mrs. Burke. The refreshments, as far as possible, were in green and pink, and pink sweet peas were used to decorate them. The next meeting will be held AS YOU LIKE IT CLUB. Burke. The refreshments, as far as possible, were in green and pink, and pink sweet peas were used to decorate them. The next meeting will be held May 7 at the residence of Mrs. Dana Burke on West Twenty-third street. Those present were Mmes. Boyle Workman, J. Roth Hamilton, Le Grande Betts, Jack Jevne, Dana Burke, Cates, Jauch, Mrs. J. Bond Francisco, Miss Harriet Smith and Miss Klokke were present as guests of the club.

A BOOK PARTY. The book party given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Allison Barlow, at their home on South Hellman street, was an extremely pleasant affair. The guests, in their costumes, suggested the titles of books, and brains were reached to correctly apply them. Prizes were given for those guessing the largest number. The rooms were effectively decorated with roses and smilax. Mrs. Barlow was assisted in receiving by Mmss. G. W. assisted in receiving by Mmes. G. W. Sherwood, D. C. Morrison, W. A. Horne, C. A. Niel and H. I. Moore. Th dining-room was presided over by the Misses Wiedenman and Miss Duke, Mrs. Barlow was charming in a waist of Persian silk, and a black skirt. Mrs. Morrison was in white silk, Mrs. Moore wore white crepon, Mrs. Horne was in pink and black, Mrs. Sherwood's waist was of red silk velled with black lace, and the sleeves of velvet. Mrs. Niel wore, with a black skirt, a waist of pale blue silk. Among the guests were: Judge and Mrs. D. C. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sherwood, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. After a luncheon, the afternoon was spent in luncheon, the afternoon was spent in the canon. The table was prettily decorated and there were mottoes and bonbons at each place. Over each chair were arching branches of white roses, and red roses were arranged in a large bowl in the center of the table, and scattered over the cloth. Those present were: Keith Vosburg, Murray Vosburg, Jamie and Sallie Utley, Adela, Bruce and Marion Macnell. GERMAN REBEKAH ENTERTAIN-MENT. A successful dancing party was given last evening by the German Edelweiss last evening by the German Edelweiss Rebekah Lodge, No. 67, at Odd Fellows' Hall, on South Main street. The Marseilles orchestra furnished the music, The feature of the evening was an April fool grab-bag. The floor was managed by Mr. Gherkins. The Reception Committee-included: Mrs. Schultz, Mrs. Bickell, Miss Fellner, and Messrs. Gherkins and Joseph Bickell.

Sheriff reached Los Angeles on the 1:30 p.m. train and an hour later was on his way back to Texas, with Johnson in his custody.

According to Sheriff Moore's story, Johnson had a violent animosity toward a man who lived near Alva and resolved to kill him. Johnson lay in wait, says the Sheriff, on a road along which he knew his enemy would pass. In the darkness he heard a man passing by and shot him dead. But it was the wrong man. The murderer fled to Callfornia. The grand jury returned an indictment against him, but hoping to lure him back to Texas, it caused the story to be widely spread that Johnson could not be held responsible for the murder. Johnson returned to Texas secretly and stayed long enough to hear the story that the grand jury had falled to find a bill against him. Then he went back to Los Angeles and gave himself up to Sheriff Burr, fancying he would be quickly exonerated and could spend the rest of his days in his old home, among his familiar friends.

Sheriff Moore believes he has a clear case against Johnson and that his prisoner's neck is in imminent danger of being stretched.

Henry Blum realizes that the chain of evidence in regard to his operations with worthless checks is too strong to with worthless checks is too strong to admit of hope of escape. He has told his captor, Detective Steele, that he is guilty. He says he wants to be sent to Folsom as soon as the thing can be done. If such a thing were possible, he would waive examination, but the customs of legal procedure demand that he be examined. This will be done Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. All three charges on which he was arrested will be pressed against him. It is probable he will not escape with a less sentence than fourteen years.

ordinance such as is asked for by the merchants, but has thus far had no support from his colleagues in the matter. Councilman Pessell, who is a member of the Board of Public Works, is known to be opposed to a "hitching" ordinance. The ground for his opposition may be understood by the statement, made by him when the subject was under discussion, that "these hack men oppose any such ordinance, and they're the fellows that can roll up a lot of votes on election day."

It may not be generally known that there is already an ordinance in force adopted in September, 1886, which deals with this question. This ordinance is entitled, "An Ordinance Regulating the Use of the Public Streets of the City of Los Angeles," and reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any person"

Mrs. Martin was in difficulties, and the affairs of the hotel were rapidly going from bad to worse. Guests were leaving, creditors were pressing and ruin seemed imminent last December, when the change took place. Mr. Hanna had loaned money to Mrs. Martin, and, to get this out, and save the hotel from being closed, he and Mr. Brant entered into a contract with Mrs. Martin, by which they agreed to take a half interest in the house and run it during the winter months, devoting Mrs. Martin's half of the profits to the payment of the debts incurred by her. No money was advanced for the payment of old debts, and Messrs. Brant and Hanna refuse to acknowledge the present claim except as on the same basis as the others.

G. B. Tontini, the old Frenchman who has been making things lively for L. Pelanconi, was examined yesterday by the commission on lunacy in Judge yan Dyke's court, and discharged. As Tontoni's peculiar form of insanity was a wild desire to protect his own life by taking Pelanconi's, the latter felt some uneasiness while the old gentleman was at large. Tontini declared that Pelanconi was seeking his life, and was going around on the trail of his supposed enemy with a gun. After his discharge by the insanity commission, Pelanconi went at once to the District Attorney's office and swore out a com-

White of this city, charging him with having taken a letter from the Los Angeles postoffice on May 27, 1895, addressed to R. A. White is engaged in business on Los Angeles street, being the manager of the branch house of Baker & Hamilton San Francisco, dealers in agricultural implements.

Mr. White was taken before Commissioner Van Dyke, who fixed his bail at $1000, which was furnished by E. M. Hanna and O. C. Morgan. His arraignment is set for next Thursday at 10:30 a.m.

It seems that the letter was mailed at Riverside two days previous to its alleged interception, and was signed by H. Johnson. The person to whom it was addressed was at that time in the employ of Mr. White, and the letter in the ordinary course of business would be delivered with such other mail as might be directed to the same place. Mr. White has no recollection of having opened the letter and disclaims having done so, except by accident. He thinks he may have slit the envelope in the haste of opening his mail, which is somewhat voluminous not observing the address, but declares that he had no intention of doing so, if in fact such was the case.

Increasing Demand for Country Property.

Competition : Among

Contractors. Boyle Heights—Business North and South of First Street—The Public Market—Along the River. Building Notes.

The real estate market continues quite steady. The chief feature of the market, and the most encouraging one is the growing demand for country property. Indeed, the chief business now being done is in country real estate and there is especially good inquiry for large tracts suitable for subdivision. The deals that have recently been made are but an index of many others that are now under discussion and likely to be consummated at an early date.

This is, as The Times has said, the most encouraging feature of the market, and one which promises well for the coming year. Reference has frequently been made in this column to the need of encouraging the productive horticultural industries in order to insure permanent prosperity. It has also been shown that while there may be a dencer of temporarily overdoing the erection of business blocks, there can be no question of overdoing the production of the valuable crops that may be raised in this section. There may be a temporary glut in the market, owing to lack of facilities for handling the crop, but the time will never come when the horticultural and other products raised in Southern California will not pay big interest on a reasonable value per acre.

THE PUBLIC MARKET.

While residents in the neighborhood of Tenth and Main street have not yet been successful in getting the big hotel built, they are likely to secure one public improvement, in the shape of a market place, the committee of the Council having recommended the acceptance of the site at the corner of Ninth and Los Angeles streets. This site is a long way from the old Plaza, the geographical center of the city, where it was hoped that a site might have been obtained, but considering the southeasterly trend of population in the city itself, the Ninth-street site will perhaps accommodate a larger number of people within the next few years than would a market near the Plaza. The Ninth-street location will also be very convenient to farmers who bring their produce to town from Downey and adjoining sections, the direct route from which to the city lies across the Ninth-street bridge.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.

Property in Boyle Heights is already beginning to look up, owing to the assurance that work will soon commence on the new electric railroad across Fourth street. The completion of this road will at once be followed by the subdivision of several large tracts on the east side of the river. With the single exception of the northwestern corner of the city, there is no part of Los Angeles in which are so many tracts of considerable size still unsubdivided as in Boyle Heights.

Another attempt is to be made to ascertain whether oil exists in paying quantities on the east side of the city. Parties have leased the Mora tract, in the southeastern part of Boyle Heights, a few blocks south of Evergreen Cemetery, and will bore for oil. There are excellent indications both of oil and gas in that section. That part of the city is quite thinly settled at present, and the prevailing winds blow away from the city, so that an oil territory would not be open to so much objection there as it is along Temple street und First street.

A correspondent of The Times takes exception to the statement of a subscriber, mentioned last week in this scriber, mentioned last week in this column, that "all the wholesale houses, five-sixths of the banks, three-fourths of the dry goods stores, half the shoe stores, and a majority of many other lines of business are still located north of First street. This correspondent shows that there are nine banks south of that street. The subscriber referred to says he intended to state that five-sixths of the "banking business" is transacted north of First street, counting in the Merchants' National bank in the Nadeau building. This is shown by the clearing-house reports. The Farmers' and Merchants' Bank alone does more business than all the banks south of the Nadeau Hotel. As for the dry goods stores, there are six important ones north of First street as compared with three south of that street; of cothing stores, six north and one south. There is only one important wholesale house south of First street.

The proportion of the business of Los Angeles of all descriptions that is still transacted north of First street is much larger than a person would suppose who merely judges by the big business blocks that have been erected during the past few years on South Spring street and South Broadway.

LOANS ON COUNTRY PROPERTY.
Poindexter & Wadsworth have issued a handsome pamphlet containing a list of property for sale and exchange, with half-tone engravings of many of the houses. This is a good way to give a would-be purchaser an accurate idea of the property aftered for sale and should stimulate business. The publishers have the following to say in regard to loans on country property:
"City loans have been in such demand by investors in the past year, that country loans have been somewhat neglected. But the tide is turning again, and careful investors are beginning to realise the fact that a loan rightly made on a good plece of country property is one of the safest forms of investment."
CONTRACTORS COMPETITION.

CONTRACTORS COMPETITION.

The Builder and Contractor has the following in regard to the evils of undue competition among contractors:

"The ruinous competition among contractors in this place is due, in a great measure, to the fact that workmen when out of employment, are ready to annear the state of th

The former does little harm, as the overgrown tender is never considered, but the low tender injects its poison into the whole transaction and leads the owner to believe that the more correct tenders are much too high and that an attempt to take advantage is being made. This state of affairs generally ends in either awarding the contract to the incompetent low bidder or a second call for tenders.

"If the first, the contractor usually bungles the whole matter, partly from the fact that he soon discovers there is no money in the job for him; then comes a series of schemes and efforts to slight the work and cram in inferior material, against which the architect or inspector 'kicks,' with the result that the contractor gets deeper and deeper into the mire, until at last, in despair, he either throws up the work or stoops to the inevitable, which is often ruin to himself and family.

"If new tenders are called for the evitable, which is often ruin to himself and family.

"If new tenders are called for, the legitimate contractors, in their efforts to keep out the 'workman,' will cut down their estimates to starvation rates, while the 'incompetent,' in his eagerness to get work, makes further reductions in his tender, thus dropping into the 'trap' prepared for him by the 'regulars,' and as a rule his low figures catch the owner in spite of the advice or protests of the architect, and the result is trouble and confusion all around and oftimes severe loss to the owner. This is a sad and injurious condition: but it exists in our midst, and should be regulated out of sight. Can it be controlled? With proper management, we think it can be."

ESTATES AND COMMISSIONS.

In an estate now pending in the Superior Court of San Francisco, Judge Coffey lately made a decision of much importance, both to administrators, executors and real estate agents, which seems to settle, so far at least as that court is concerned, the power of an administrator or executor to employ agents to assist in the sale of property.

Thomas Magee in his San Francisco Real Estate Circular has the following on this question:

"Although there have been no decisions in this State upon the direct questions involved, Judge Coffey has adopted the rule stated by several text writers, and approved by several decisions in other States—namely, that an executor or administrator should be allowed the reasonable expenses in curred in the execution of his trust, of whatever nature they my be, the propriety of the expense, and its amount being a matter for the determination of the court. If the expenses appear to have been incurred in good faith in managing the estate properly, they will be allowed. The theory of all these allowances is that they are either for services rendered, or expenses made in good faith, and of such a character that would be incurred by a prudent man in the management of a similar business. The ruling in the case referred to, is in accordance with the language of the Supreme Court of this State, 'that the only measure of an administrator's duty is to act with fidelity, and with that degree of prudence and diligence which a man of ordinary judgment would be expected to bestow upon his own affairs of a like nature."

WOOD VS. IRON.

A report from Consul Robertson of

WOOD VS. IRON.

A report from Consul Robertson of Hamburg, published by the State Department, contains the curious item of information that in the great new ware-houses constructed in the German port, wood is being substituted for iron to secure better protection against fire. These buildings were originally provided with iron beams and girders, but when one of them was burned some years ago, it was found that the iron had been so bent and twisted by the heat as to become a source of great danger to the adjoining structures. "In all the warehouses, therefore, which have since been built," observes Mr. Robertson, "it has been deemed advisable to substitute wood for iron as much as possible." Probably a heavy wooden beam, imbedded in some non-conducting material, that would exclude the air, would be as nearly fireproof as anything except brick or stone. It might be charred on the outside, but the interior would probably remain sound in any ordinary heat.

COST OF WATER FOR IRRIGATION. In purchasing irrigated land in this section and in the material and the most in the most its most its most interesting the WOOD VS. IRON.

nually, as quoted, I would state that there is in the Pomona Valley a tract of land, about 3000 acres, a part of which is in the city limits of Pomona, and known as the Loop & Meserve tract. The average annual cost of service for irrigating in this tract is from 11 to 20 cents per acre. This is without doubt the best and cheapest water right in Southern California, and is quite in contrast with the $20 to $25 per acre as in the case of Crofton, Rediands, Perris, and other places under the Bear Valley dam system in San Bernardino county, or even under the Sweetwater dam system in San Diego. 'Old Baldie' acts as a most durable and inexpensive reservoir for the Pomona Valley, and the water rights in this tract are an appurtenance to the land, as decided by the courts.''

Jim-Crow Revolution Conceived at Solomonville.

Territorial Republicans Involved in a Dispute.

Trouble Over Apportionment of the Delegates to Convention—A Big Cattle Deal—Railway to the Grand Canor

a SOLOMONVILLE, March 30,—(Regular Correspondence.) The late threatened "revolution" in Mexico, for which Mexican troops were hurriedly massed at Nogales, Sonora, and which aroused the attention of the Federal authorities of both the United States and Mexico, had its inception here in Solomonville. The only opinion held of it here was that it was funny. The Republic of Mexico was in about as much Solomonville. The only opinion held of it here was that it was funny. The Republic of Mexico was in about as much danger from it, as expressed by the Bulletin, as "Mt. Graham is in danger of being anatched away by a sitting hen." Aguirre and Chapa are thirdrate printers, and one of them had a little newspaper outfit here. The other news a seditious circular on the job press for distribution in Mexico. It was reported, and then the fun began. Aguirre is a rattle-brain, who couldn't make a rebel out of anybody. He is a convert of the "Santa" Teresa, who has been been here for some months, and hoped to use the regard held for her by the ignorant of Sonora in his little jimcrow revolution. Several witnesses in the matter have gone to El Paso, where Aguirre took refuge. The "Santa" Teresa has gone to Clifton, the "salnt" business being dull around here. All there is to her "powers" is a superficial knowledge of medicine and surgery. She got her reputation through two or three cures effected by methods of regular physicians, which were exaggerated by the ignorant Mexicans among whom she dwelt into something supernatural. She carefully avoids Mexico. GRAHAM COUNTY BREVITTES.

GRAHAM COUNTY BREVITIES.

The school muddle at Matthews has a new phase. Some time ago a compromise was made by the two factions by which it was agreed that the first three months of school should be conducted in the new house and the next three months in the old one. This arrangement was carried through till the time for the change to the old building came. When the trustees removed the seats to the other building there was a revolt. The teacher resigned and then the trustees all got mad and resigned, too. The school management is now in the hands of the County Superintendent. The next news from the kicking district will probably be that the superintendent also resigned.

WAR IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP.

WAR IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP.

Tonight's Herald comes out in war paint on the matter of the appointment of delegates to the Republican Territorial Convention, as already related in these columns. Says the Herald:

"By the most unscrupulous methods proxies of county committeemen have been obtained in sufficient numbers to secure control of the County Committee. At the called meeting of the committee a cut and dried resolution was offered and adopted by means of those proxies, appointing a committee of nine but two of whom were members of the Central Committee, whose duty if should be to call a county convention. This committee, and the two regular committeemen, was composed of the gang that has been holding secret meetings in conspiracy against Republicans for the last two or three months. When the committee of nine by proxy, one of whom is not even a citizen of the Territory, met, every resolution, motion and thing to be done was ready and typewritten, and the dirty scheme went through as slick as grease, and one of the jobs was to rob the country precincts of their representation and endeavor to give the membership to Pheenix prepinct, when it would be jobbed. "Caucuses, not primaries, were provided for and those to be held at 7:30 in the evening, and inspectors whose names were already in typewriting, were named. This is but a part of a most dastardly scheme to rob the Republican citizens of this county of any voice as to who shall be delegates to St. Louis, the delegate to Congress and the management of Republican politics.

They owe this to themselves as self-respecting citizens and honest Republicans." THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVEN-

The constitution is to be submitted to the voters of the Territory for ratification or rection on the first Tuesday after the election.

The bill was due to a Phoenix woman for nursing him during an illness. When she came he declined to settle, and used the ax as aforementioned. The arbitration of the Police Court was then invoked by the woman, with such good results that Leak not only paid the 31l, but a fine on top of it for assault. The Phoenix Police Court is mighty far-reaching.

A BIG CATTLE DEAL.

The biggest cattle sale of the season, and, for the matter of that, for years, has just been completed here. Five thousand head were sold in a lump by Alkire Bros., W. W. Cook, Mrs. F. A. Stevens and A. A. Stahle to Frank Mills, of Denver, and Jerry Sullivan of Prescott, says the cattle are all from the New River range, where the annual rodeo will soon be held. They will fill 145 cars, and will be shipped from Glendale station. The cattle will be sent to California, Kansas and Montana. The price paid is not stated, but it will aggregate about $50,000. The first shipment will be sent out April 25.

To one or two parties who were at the depot, who knew them, they stated that their announcement of making the trip by burro was all a fake. They stated that they would leave the train at Glendale and secure burros there and ride them into Phoenix. Lord Sholto created a fund of merriment for the usual hangers-on around the depot while the train waited there. He was attired in a pair of skin-tight pants and tooth-plok-toed shoes, with "weskit" shirt and hat to match—an ideal suit for bronco riding—while his strut back and forth on the depot platform was an imitation of a circus clown. In response to numerous requests for a repetition of "Gallia," the Pasadena Choral Society will reproduce the entire programme as rendered March 25 at the Universalist Church. The rendition will be given at the Tabernacle next Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Epworth League, the same soloists, orchestra and chorus taking part.

At a full meeting of the First Con-taking part.

At a full meeting of the First Congregational Church Wednesday evening, a unanimous call was extended to Rev. Herbert W. Lathe to become the permanent pastor of the church. Mr. Lathe's work has pleased his congregation, and there is little doubt that he will remain in the field where he has been so useful, and where his labors are so well appreciated.

Comrade Stunz, chairman of the Committee of Arrangements of the reception which is to be given to veterans of the war, whether members of the G.A.R. or not, desires that the affair may be kept in mind, and that Appomattox day may be so celebrated in Pasadena April 9, that it will be a redletter day in the lives of the "old boys," whose fighting days are over. It is desired that the surrounding towns take notice of the invitation, and that the old soldiers come in the forenoon, take dinner with the members of the John

Sad Death of Ray Hutchins's Infant Daughter.
Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hutchins have the sincere sympathy of the community in a calamity which befell them Wednesday at the residence of J. R. Crowley, Mrs. Hutchins's father, who lives at Vernon, a suburb of Los Angeles. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins have been visiting there, and their little daughter, a beautiful child about 18 months old the child about 18 months old, that of his house with all its contents. On the heels of this disaster came a failure in health, which compelled him to re-linquish a business which he had built up with assiduous industry to a profitable point. Then this misfortune comes at a time when his wife's health is so precarious that her friends are seriously alarmed for its effects upon her.

New Board of Trade Rooms.

The new Board of Trade rooms have seen completely furnished and present been completely furnished and present a handsome appearance. Rugs cover the floors, chairs and tables have been purchased, and hangings of harmonious shades. The pictures are not yet in place, and anyone having any interesting pictures typical of Southern California and this vicinity, may place them on exhibition in the rooms. It is arranged that the various railroads and Mount Lowe will be represented by pictures, and later on an exhibit of fruit and flowers will be arranged for. Mr. Boynton is in charge as secretary, and the board is in first-class shape for business.

Mr. Tyler, who lives at the corner of Bradford street and Arroyo drive, is the owner of "the new rooster." The fowl has adopted fifteen incubatorhatched chickens, and takes the same charge of them that the mother hen, "old style," exerted over her brood. He does all the scratching for the little ones, hovers them under his wings, and even attempts to imitate clucking. The rooster is a brown Leghorn, and an example to his sex.

Adonted the Flests Colors.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade this afternoon the fiesta colors selected by the committee were adopted as permanent colors for Pasadena, and blue and gold will therefore predominate in our decorations in the future. It was also decided to entertain the Hotel Association here April 17, and Messrs. Holmes, Painter, James, Daggett, Coleman and Lukens were appointed to consider some plan of entertainment which is to some plan of entertainment which is to be reported at an open meeting of the board next Wednesday evening. It is hoped that every member of the board, and every citizen interested in the wel-fare of the town will be present at the meeting, to offer suggestions upon the subject of the entertainment of these visitors. The Committee on Furnish-ing made its report, and the same was accepted.

The Shakespeare Club.

At the meeting of the Shakespeare Club which will be held Friday after noon, officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and it is hoped that every member of the club will be there. The for consideration are also of unusual interest, the papers and dis-cussions treating of the life of Napo-leon and of Robespierre.

Frank Ryan Refuses to Tell Who Slashed Him.

After the meeting was over at Peniel Hall last evening, a little knot of men were standing in the entrance hall. There was a scuffle and a few angry words, then one man hurried off down the street, leaving another with three slashes on his head, one on the cheek, one severing the ear and cutting the skin back of the ear, and a third on the throat in such a position that if it had been an eight of an inch deeper it would have laid open the windpipe.

The wounded man was taken to the Police Station, where he gave his name as Frank Ryan. He refused to telt the name of his assailant. Detective Bradish ran the gamut from persuasion to threats, but his efforts were all in vain. Ryan would not talk, He told the detective there was no use trying to find out the man who had done the cutting, for even if he were arrested he (Ryan) would refuse to prosecute him or to give any testimony against him.

in its excellent system of postal savings banks that England is in advance of this country. Another good system that has been adopted there is that of agricultural banks, which have for their purpose the furnishing of small sums to farmers in order to help them to work their land. At a recent meeting of the association in London the gentleman presiding said that he begentleman presiding said that he be-lieved that by means of these banks they would in time enable their agri-culturists to compete with the for-eigner. They had met with the support of leading bankers. They had now four-teen banks in existence. The associa-tion has issued a letter showing that these are purely cooperative. ZANTE CURRANTS. The raisin men of California have gained an important victory in the decision of United States DistrictAttorney Judge Morrow in Sar Francisco, who has decided that all currants grown on the mainland of Greece rants grown on the mainland of Greece are Zante currants and under the Wilson act are dutiable at the rate of 1½ cents a pound.

There never was any doubt in the mind of any fair-minded man that these so-called currants were truly raisins, just as much as the seedless California raisins, but it looked for a time as it the trick of the eastern importers might win. The decision already has had the effect of sending up the price of imwin. The decision already has had the effect of sending up the price of im-ported currants in the East 1 cent or more a pound, and should have a stim-ulating effect on the California raisin industry, which has suffered so much of Apropos of this subject, it appears that the Greek government proposes to do with currants exactly the opposite of what Mr. Lubin recommends in the of what currants exactly the opposite of what Mr. Lubin recommends in the case of wheat. The great staple export crop of Greece is seedless raisins or currants. According to the California Fruit Grower a law went into effect last year in Congress which provided that 15 per cent. of the total crop of currants should be withheld from export and turned over to the government authorities for distillation. Under that law, however, it was permitted that growers or exporters might pay a certain sum of money into the national treasury instead of delivering the 15 per cent. of the currant crop. It is now found that exporters are disposed to contribute money rather than currants; hence it is proposed to amend the act and make the delivery of 15 per cent, of the fruit to the government compulsory upon the growers.

The Fruit Grower says:

"Our most recent advices from Greece are to the effect that the bill for compulsory delivery of the fruit, recently passed to its first reading in the Greek Parliament, and it expected soon to become a law.

come a law.

'Instead, therefore, of offering a bounty for the export of large quantities of currants, thus stimulating over-production and low prices in all markets, the Greek government promarkets, the Greek government pro-poses to curtail exports and thus en-hance the price of currants in the world's markets. And the effect of such action on the part of the govern-ment is manifest from the fact that in view of the early passage of the act re-ferred to, prices of currants have al-ready stiffened, according to our Eng-lish advices, and it is expected that substantial advances will follow the final adoption of the new law.

The stock footed upmore than half the trading for the day, and the price went up and down between 89½ and 83½, with remarkable celerity under professional manipulations and variable rumors. The general list was almost entirely neglected, pending the manipulation in the Tobacco shares. The opening was fractionally higher all around, in sympathy with improvement in the prices for American securities in London, and of some buying for that account in this market. A reactionary tendency soon developed. A moderate buying movement set in at the extreme low point, which carried values generally above last night's level, with the Grangers and Union Pacific prominent. The last mentioned was bought on expectation of favorable action by Congress in regard to the settlement of indebteness of the Pacific railroads to the government. Dullness and irregularity within a narrow range were the only features of the afternoon thading. The dealings almost throughout the list were of the most professional character. No confirmation of the reported preparations for the export of gold on Saturday were obtainable today, the speculation, however, reflecting a slight, but unquotable, stifening in exchange and in the rates for call money. The greater part of the loans made today were and the professional character, each of the compressional character, when the subornally small bids for the 34,300,000 of the abnormally small bids for the singular free that the fourth installment in the government loan, which fell due early in the week, has been paid up until the market closed duil and unsettled, but at slight net greater part of the lo

Gold for Shipment.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Unless the conditions governing the foreign exchange market alter materially during the next two days, well-known bankers predict that gold shipments will begin on Saturday. In fact, it is currently reported in Wall street that $2,00,000 at least will be engaged before Friday evening for export. This is said to be divided between two of the largest gold-shipping firms of this city, both of whom have imported gold since the last bond issue was announced. The rate of exchange remains within % of a point where gold can be shipped with a profit.

CHICAGO, April 2.—There was no general broad speculation in today's business. It was confined to the professionals. The feeling developed in wheat early was firm, the opening being ‰ higher, and sold up ¼c more, receded ¼c and clused easy at 64%6644. The higher opening was due largely to the rumor that the Chio crop report was out, and showed a very low condition, but it atterward proved to be a private conpilation of a Toledo concern, which indicated a small yield. The price the wintry conditions were more general than yesterday throughout the West, and this was also something of a factor, though temperature receipts were very meager, but no particular significance was attached to the same, as a general blockade was reported at Duluth and Minneapolls, with all kinds of traffic at a standstill. In addition to fears of gold shipments, the decline late in the day was favorable to the fact that the board adjorns over Good Friday, and traders were indisposed to have open engagements on the long side, with a prospect of warmer weather before Saturday, and there was very little change in its speculative value for future delivery. NEW YORK, April 2.—The Evening Post's London financial cablegram says that business is virtually supended until after the Easter holidays. At 1 o'clock the market was good today, with a general closing of bear accounts prior to the holidays. Console were again at 110. Americans were firm, closing at the best. There have been indications for the last few days of a better feeling toward Americans here, and if no more unpleasant incidents occur in political matters on the American side, a more hopeful view may be taken than for some time past. No one expects a general rise, but things look as if going at least a little better. Coin and buillon in the Bank of England decreased this week fi,641.000, much having gone into circliation as usual at the end of the quarber and prior to the holidays. SUMMARY.

SANTA BARBARA COUNTY. Lemon-growers Discussed the Situa

the best price of any section. A resolution was adopted that the assembled lemon-growers of Santa Parbara county, believing it to be to the interests to form themselves into an association for the handling and selling of our lemon products, resolved that they organize into an association to be known as the "Santa Barbara County Lemon-growers' Exchange; that the chair appoint a committee of nine, of which he shall be a member ex-officio, to be known as the "Organization Climittee," and empowered to arrange all matters appertaining to forming and putting into operation the said Lemon-growers' Association. That when expedient, the said committee shall call a meeting of all subscribed members to hear the results of the labors.

The resolution was signed by all those present after which the followinnamed wer appointed the committee under the resolution: E P. Hollister, P. H. Rice, Paschal Hacker, P. C. Higgins, A. M. Lynes, T. B. Izard, J. R. Balley, C. C. Felton, E. Tallant and I. R. Baxley. This committee met in executive session when the meeting was adjourned without fixed date.

GONE WRONG.

Last October a man giving his name as W. L. Merry made his advent in Santa Barbara, and, as he was of pleasant manners and good presence, he had no difficulty in ingratiating himself with the citizens of this place. Merry possessed a good tenor voice, and he was not long in singing himself into the mystic circle of the "400." Merry had not been here long before he called on J. P. Lawton, who is in the real estate and insurance business, and asked to be given employment, saying at the time, that he was here for his health, and that he was acquainted with the insurance business. Mr. Lawton gave Merry employment and he has been engaged with the former ever since until last Saturday, when he said he was going to Los Angeles for a few days on business.

Since Merry's departure many peculiar transactions have come to light. About three months age Merry purchased from C. D. Patterson, who has a livery stable on Figueroa street, a harse, for which he promised to pay 350, this sum not to be paid until a week from the date of the transaction. On the appointed day Patterson called on Merry and requested payment for the horse. The latter said he did not have the money that day, but would have on the following morning, when Patterson was to call again. Patterson did call again, but Merry was not there to respond to the call. Mr. Lawton saw Patterson, and on learning the object of his visit, said that Merry had no money, but that he (Lawton) would pay for the horse, which he did, taking Patterson's receipt for the same.

A short time ago Mr. Lawton was in San Francisco, and during his absence Merry sold the horse, or rather mortgaged it, to a man by the name of Bates, who lives up Mission Cañon, giving him a bill of sale, Merry gave as a reason for wishing to raise money that a sum had been raised to buy the Bishop of the Episcopal diocese a mirre, and that the parties ha tion-Merry Merry. SANTA BARBARA, April 2.—(Regu-SANTA BARBARA, April 2.—(Regular Correspondence.) The lemon-growers of this county met in session yesterday for the purpose of further discussing the advisability of organizing an exchange. Letters were read from Los Angeles, San Diego, Redlands, Alhambra, Riverside and San Antonlo, and the general tenor of these communications was that only by united, concerted action, could the lemon-producers of Southern California protect themselves and obtain fair prices for their produce. The letters from Los Angeles and San Diego favored a general organization. It was stated in the meeting that Redlands, which maintains an independent organization, receives the best price of any section. A resolution was adopted that the assembled lemon-growers of Santa Parbara dle from Forbes's saddlery store, and that he has never paid for it, so that it is a question who is its owner.

About a week ago a representative of the German-America. Inneurance Company arrived in Santa Barbara, and on learning that Merry was employed at Lawson's, removed the business of his company from that man. Mr. Lawson sought a reason for this move, when he was informed that the German-American could not do bu iners with him as long as he had Merry in his employ. Furthermore, he said that Merry was not Merry, but that his proper name was Louis Earl, Lawton at once charged Earl, or Merry, with his duplicity. Earl said that the representative of the German-American Company was saying something that was not true. So well had Merry worked into the good graces of Lawton that he believed him, and there the matter rested. In this same interview Lawton asked Merry as to his debts, when the latter said that all he owed was two weeks' board and the stabling of his horse for a week. Merry in this interview failed to state that he was in debt to a man by-the name of Hathaway, who was shown the beauties of Santa Barbara to the tune of $10. Hathaway, who was shown the beauties of Santa Barbara to the tune of $10. Hathaway, who was shown the beauties of Santa Barbara to the best families of Santa Barbara to the tune of $10. Hathaway was so taken with Merry that he said if he had asked for a hundred he could have got it as easily as the ten.

Merry has been a prominent singer in the late Philharmonic Society concerts. His singing abilities have enabled him to secure entrance to the best families of Santa Barbara, His fall has been a great shock to the "400," and it will be very chary about who is admitted within the charmed fold in the future. Mr. Lawton says that he has discovered that Merry has pocketed premiums for insurance that had been, paid to him. It is believed that the whole of Merry's doings have not yet come to light.

OGRESS OF THE SOUTHERN MUR DER TRIAL AT SANTA ANA.

F. Rinard an Important Wit-ness for the Prosecution-Interesting Challenge from Riverside Chamber of Commerce - News Notes and Personals.

SANTA ANA, April 2,-(Regular Correspondence.) Interest is not lagging in the Gray Garrett Southern murder trial. All day long the courtroom was crowded to its utmost seating capacity, and even standing room the greater portion of the time was well taken. A best of witnesses were examined for the prosecution but its case has not bost of witnesses were examined for the prosecution, but its case has not yet been made, but will probably be concluded some time during the day. Saturday, Many witnesses have been found who saw the murdered Indian soon after the fatal shot had been fired, and the white man running away from the scene of the tragedy, but in the dimness of the light and midway in the block, it was difficult to recog-nize the murderer so that he could be identified if brought before them now.

Upon the opening of the case, early this morning, B. F. Rinard, the eye-witness to the crime, was called first, and his evidence was substantially the same as that given in the preliminary examination. He testified to seeing a man running away from the Indian immediately after the fatal shot was fired, and he recognized that man as Gray Garrett Southern, the defendant in the case.

and he recognized that man as Gray Garrett Southern, the defendant in the case.

W. J. Clatworthy testified that he was with Southern when the shot was fired, only a few feet away, but he did not see the shot fired, and did not stop to see whether or not any one was hurt after the report of the pistol. He was noncommittal, as much evidenily as possible, through the entire examination. Harry Ryan testified to having reached the Indian a few minutes after the shot had been fired, and seeing the American running away, but he could not identify him.

George B. Bixby remembered seeing two Mexican or Indian women near the location of the bill-boards crossing the street from Parson's grocery. With them was the Indian who was subsequently shot. C. H. Lee heard the shot that was fired and saw the Indian stagger out from behind the bill-boards, but did not see the murderer, and Wallace Woodington stated that he saw Southern go down Fourth street some time before the shooting, with a pistol in his coat pocket, but he did not know of his own knowledge what transpired later on.

Rosa Osuma, one of the Mexican or Indian women, who was with the murdered man on the eventful night of October 12, 1894, was put on the stand, and an interpreter was sworn in to report her evidence, but it was so difficult to make her understand what was wanted, that but little information was sleaned from her.

Drs. W. H. Hill and J. P. Boyd, both testified as to the nature of the wounds inflicted, and the cause of the Indian's death. J. E. Garner, Jr., stated that he heard the shot fired, and a few moments later saw a man run by his house on Ross street. Arthur Rahe was with the defendant at the fair-grounds in the evening. Came into town with him on a buckboard drawn by single horse. They tied the horse at the hitching rack near where the murder was committed.

Fred Marwells said that he was about the second man on the ground after the Fred Marsells said that he was about the second man on the ground after the shooting, but the murderer had fied be-fore his arrival. Will Deveny testi-fied to knowing the buckboard and horse that Southern drove, and that upon the night in question, said horse and buckboard were led home by Tom Selvidge and one of the Harris boys.

James Smith, a colored man, heard the shot. He was then on the east side of Birch street, between Fourth and Fifth street. When he heard the shot he stopped. A few moments later he went on to Fourth street, and then saw a man walking fast, or running away, from the scene of the murder.

At the conclusion of the evidence of this witness, court adjourned to Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE. The directors of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday evening in their rooms over McFadevening in their rooms over McFadden's store.

The subject of the presently arranged plan of taxing for city business licenses was brought up and discussed, it appearing that but little fairness exists in the present plan. According to the manner in which the city licenses are imposed now many merchants with a large stock of goods pay less than half the city license that others pay who have less than half the amount of stock the former have.

The corner have.

It is no doubt an unjust distinction, and should be remedied in some way. The chamber appointed a committee consisting of Messrs. George A. Edgar and E. B. Smith to investigate the matter, and report at the next meeting of the chamber.

The secretary was instructed to continue in the work of circulating the two petitions for and against municipal ownership of electric lights for the city of Banta Ana.

A lady representative of the Los Angeles Herald made a proposition to the Chamber to advertise Orange county in a special edition of the Herald to be issued in the near future for which she proposed to charge the sum of $200, but the project was tabled, where it will probably remain.

WRONGLY DETAINED. SAN BERNARDINO, March 2.—Judge Charles S. Hughes of Santa Barbara, Charles S. Hughes of Santa Barbara, now confined in the insane asylum at Highland, was today again brought before Judge Otis of the Superior Court on a writ of habeas corpus. The petition, among other things, charged that Judge Hughes has been wrongfully imprisoned in the asylum by persons who are desirous of handling his property, stated to be worth $1,000,000. He claims to be the owner of $3,000 acres of land near Santa Barbara and other property in San Francisco. When on the stand Judge Hughes made an impression on the lawyers present. He showed a retentive memory and great intelligence. Judge Gallardo, an old-time friend, rode all the way from Nevada on a mule to rescue his old friend, and conducted the case with great ability. If Hughes is not sane he certainly shows more ability than many who are running at large. The case was continued until tomorrow for further hearing.

The officials of the customhouse would not permit him to do so. Charlie Sam insisted upon a pow-wow with Collector John C. Fisher. It was accorded to him. Mr. Fisher told Charlie that under a special ruling made by the Secretary of the Treasury, Mexicanized Chinamen could not enter this country. AZUSA, April 2.—(Regular Correspondence.) Azusa is still cultivating. A deputy sheriff from Los Angeles is here today subpoenaing witnesses in the H. C. Roberts case. W. P. Barnes is in trouble, and calculates to make somebody pay for it. He acted as ag.nt in the sale of the W. J. Cox piace to J. C. Taillcott, recently from Memphis, Tenn. The purchase price was $17,000. Agreements were signed, and Taillcott deposited $1000 in the Azusa Bank as a forfeit. Cox gave a bill of sale of some personal property that went with the place, and went to Los Angeles to look for a house. When it came to signing the deed yesterday Mrs. Cox refused. Taillcott telephoned the Azusa Bank this afternoon to release Cox from his agreement, but Mr. Barnes objects to closing matters up so suddenly without saying anything to him about commissions. He falls to have a written contract on the property, but he made the sale, and is a witness to the agreement between the buyer and seller. Editor Jeffrey has fought bloomers since their invention. He joined the gun club and swore they should not enter the town alive, but they came in the night, and the editor succumbed today in the following words:

"Azusa has been accused by some of prudery in respect to bloomers, and in fac' his been slow in taking upon itself the bifurcated garment. To be sure, several costumes have been known to be in our midst, for some time, but they have passed only in the night, and therefore have shocked nobody. But now, O now, this so-called prudery is a thing of the past. They are no longer bloomers that pass in the night, and the people will have to get used to them whether or no, as they will have their reign. However, the writer has one kick fo register. He is a great admirer of the mandolin sleeve, and does not like to see it so misplaced. Overalls are cheaper and have all kinds of pockets, besides offering much less resistance to the air."

G.A.R. AND W.R.C. The San Francisco papers have been giving currency to a story that San Diego will be the place selected for the Southern California Encampment Association of the G.A.R. Such is not the fact, as Ventura has been chosen as the camp ground for this year, and from July 1 to July 15 this city will entertain the members of the association, which includes all G.A.R. and W.R.C. posts in Southern California. July 4 will be celebrated by a joint demonstration in which the millitary and civic associations will participate. Santa Barbara will in all probability celebrate in this city, as the attractions here will bring to this city the majority of the pleasure-seekers. Special rates have been provided for from all points as far south as San Diego, and the largest Fourth of July demonstration on record in this county is an assured fact. Price was further out than the others, and was not successful in getting back. He was lost to view from shore, and apprehension for his safety became deepened. His wife, becoming aware of the situation, became more and more anxious at his non-appearance, and asked that a tug be sent out in search of him. Secretary Alnsworth of the Redondo Railway Company, was appealed to, and as the wind continued to blow strong off shore, it was decided to send the tug out. Steam was started, and, although it was not known what direction to go, Price's boat not being in sight, Capt. Lawson steamed away, and after running several miles, sighted the missing man. Price was making a feeble attempt to move toward land, but was handicapped. The wind was blowing too strong to keep sall up, and it would have been of little use to have it up, if he could, for it would, have served only to heighten the pace at which he was going from land and esafety. Nearly exhausted, the unfortunate fisherman was trying to row the heavy post to ward shore, the effort being ineffectual in the face of the heavy resistance of boats came in. Price was further out tarnoon. It was at first thought the man's death might be due to causes other than his own acts, but the developments at the inquest seemed to determine otherwise. A note written in German was found under his pillow, addressed to Mr. Hock. The note, as translated, bore date of what seemed to be 1 a.m., Wednesday. It said had such pain he could not sit up, and he could not bear it any longer. It was better for him to bid the world good-by, the note said, and he wished to give his respects to everybody. Dr. H. M. Cox, who was called in the case, found the man's symptoms before he died to be those of opium poisoning. One of the witnesses testified that Kempf told him a few days ago that he expected to take laudanum. A bottle almost emptied of the drug was found in his room. The verdict was in accordance with the facts. The deceased was a widower, and was a tailor by trade. He has an adopted son in Los Angeles, bearing his name. "Mr. President: Knowing that the political history of affairs in Arizona has been calculated to destroy your confidence in this people and lead you to believe that our leading men are a set of demagogues, controlled by envious spite, we feel a hesitancy in addressing you. But knowing that you have the best interests of Arizona at heart and wish to see on honest, economical government here, we have determined, as officers of the organized Democracy, to make one last appeal in behalf of the people for good government. During the last election we lost the Delegate to Congress and the Legislative Assembly, besides nearly all the important county offices of the Terrory. Even if it were admitted that Mr. Hughes is not corrupt, yet it is unquestionably true that he is indistruct, utterly lacking in the qualities to constitute a leader of a thrifty, energying ploneer people. Exhibit No. 3 is a letter from Tom Farish to Hoke Smith, "to place before the President and yourself, dispassionately and calmly, some of the disgraceful acts that have deservedly brought the administration of Gov. Hughes into contempt and ridicule before the people, and ask again that he be replaced," etc. "It is always best," he says further on, "to wash party linen with as little publicity as possible, but, Mr. Secretary, I state a fact middly when I say that public sentiment has reached a state of disgust which makes further temporizing at Washington dangerous to Democratic success in Arizona. Upto the time of the examination made by Inspectors Olive and Duncan, the shortcomings of our Governor were confined to small and irregular raids on the Teritorial treasury. But since then having, it is said, received assurance that he will be retained in office, under the magic workings of the Board of Control. . the bars have been let down and the extravagant misappropriation of money has been made the corner-stone of our Territorial administration. It is the consensus of opinion of those who have watched the working of this board that had Hughes been removed three months ago, the Territory would have been the gainer to the extent of $15,000 to $20,000. That provision of law requiring all contracts of supplies or material to be made after publication to the lowest bidder, and Chairman McCord has purchased all supplies for the asylum and let all contracts for that institution privately. Work that will cost the Territory $25,000 has been begun, when the judiclous expenditure of $6000 or $7000 would have covered all present requirements. This last amount has been already expended and hardly a commencement made. . . About the first of July the board purchased from Mr. Mulford ten acres of land for a dumping ground for the asylum sewage. Mr. Mulford says he was paid $380. GOV. HUGHES ASSAULTED. At noon yesterday while Gov. Hughes was walking down Washington street with two friends, he was stopped to read a letter. While perusing it he was assaulted, without a word, by P. J. Clark, a single blow on the eye being struck. The assault was entirely unexpected. The Governor's hat was crushed and his spectacles broken, one of the glasses cutting his eyelid. Clark, who is a correspondent of a Denver paper, and has seen his best days, was at once arrested and fined $5 in Police Court, which was promptly paid by enemies of Hughes's. Clark claims to have been persecuted by the Governor in the Tucson Star. He was subsequently arrested for assault and taken before Justice of the Peace Johnston. His hearing was set for next Friday and his bail set at $50, furnished by Thomas Smith, an anti-Hughes Democrat.

The question as to who is acting executive pending Appointee Franklin's confirmation, arose at the Governor's office this morning. Secretary of the Territory Bruce was in line do think that the office was in his hands, while Gov. Hughes was of the opinion that, under the famous tenure-of-office act of President Johnson't time, he was still in power until such time as Franklin is confirmed, or otherwise. Personally, the Secretary and ex-Governor are not friendly, and a rupture between the two was anticipated. This, fortunately, did not occur. The gentlemen agreed that Secretary Bruce should wire to Washington to learn the wishes of the administration in the matter. To the present writing no answer has been received.

Of his removal Gov. Hughes says: assaulted, without a word, by P. J. Clark, a single blow on the eye being

The post-mortem examination showed that one kidney was greatly enlarged and diseased, with some supicion of cancer. The liver was also diseased, and in the stomach there signs of gastritis. There is no reason to believe that any of this complication of diseases was brought on by the unfortunate accident at the ranch three weeks ago.
